POLITICAL CORRUPTION—THE WATCHMAN.

"Forgive my general and exceptless rashness,
You perpetual sober gods! I do proclaim
One honest man—mi-take me not—but one;
No more, I pray—and he is a steward."
[Shakespear's Temon of Athens

The Watchman last week in its article entitled "Independent Representatives," contradicts Shakspear, and declares that, that one honest man is not "a steward," but Peter G. Meek, a disciple good and pure, and true of the great "professional borer," James Burns. The writer of that article says:

"The people of this Commonwealth, "yearly select one hundred, whose duty "it is to repair to the State Capital, and "there, forming the House of Repre-"sentatives, proceed to enact—in con-"junction with the Senate—such laws as "may be requisite for the peace, securi-"ty and welfare of the whole people.—"These men are selected because of their "fitness for the position. Because they "are believed to possess the requisite "knowledge to favor, and personal in-"dependence to vote for, such laws as "the exigencies of the time require.—"But year after year the people are de-"ceived."

Republicans, thinking Democrats, taxpayers, lumbermen of Centre county, mark the language, especially that which we have in "italics." How often have we told you the same thing. Have we not frequently told you that you were deceived every year, at least as the honest German would say, for the last one, dwo, dree year last past in this county? But the Watchman goes on—

"Possessing at home, fair characters "for integrity, many of these Represen-"tatives (?) upon arriving at Harrisburg "come under the seductive influences "there brought to bear upon them, and "fall—fall from the proud position they "occupy at home—fall from the exalted "station of a high toned, independent "gentleman, to the depraved level of a "truckling sycophant, the willing slave "of a tyranical master."

Call ye not this sounding your own trumpet? The only honest man is not 'a steward,' but really and truly our own Centre county Representative, Peter G. Meek. Even Brick Pomeroy with all his brazen facedness, would blush at such plain and palpable self-exaltation. Surely our member is working his card for a re-election. But this is not particularly our business. Democratic aspirants for Legislative honors, look to your own interests, to your own laurels, to your own openly and avowed doctrine of rotation in office.

But the writer of the article (and we do not believe it is the Associate Editor) grows poetical, and quotes from Pope, the verse commencing—still, no doubt, keeping in view his only honest man, and his great desire for a fourth term, and says:

"Vice is a monster of such hideous mein," &c.,

"One, observing the movements on "the floor of the House preliminary to a "vote being taken upon a bill in which "some particular party is either directly "or indirectly interested; sees, in all its "sickening phases, the want of manli-"ness—of independence on the part of "Representatives."

Can it be possible that the writer has any references here to the "Sandy Run Improvement and Lumber Co." charter, in which his honest man "either directly or indirectly" had an interest, and of which company he is now Secretary?—Think you that he can in any way refer to several other little bills passed in the interest of this honest man who is not "a stewart," and in the interest of certain monied corporations and monopolies?—Or is it a little innocent sarcasm merely intended to direct our attention to a certain three story brick building with a Hall in it, erected after a two years term of "independent," honest (?) service in the Legislature? And now as the writer called the great poet Pope, to his aid we are tempted to call upon Cowper to aid us in arriving at the writers true meaning.

"Examine well
His milk-white hands the palm is hardly clean,
But here and there an ugly smutch appears.
Foh! 'Twas a bribe that left it. He has touched corruption. * * *
Thieves at home must hang; but he that puts into his over-gorged and bloated purse,
The wealth of Indian provinces, escapes."

Now, reader, strike out the words "Indian Provinces" in the last line of our quotation from Cowper, and insert in their stead the 'Big Sandy Run Improvement Co." and other corporations, and we think the question is solved; but it leaves us in doubt as to whether the writer of the article in the Watchman is really writing in favor of Meek or trying his hand at a little bitter sarcasm or irony. He certainly drops the plural number and says:

"Owned, body and breeches, by an-"other, he no more obeys the dictates of "his own judgment than does the donk-"ey bridled and bitted. To assert his "manhood and act for himself and of "himself, would be the part he was elec-"ted to play in the Legislative drama; "but he has been cast in just such char-"acters as his new found master has "seen fit to assign him—either in the af-"firmative or negative of any proposi-"tion to be passed upon. Expected by "his people to act for them he is found "worsping false gods"— and may we not supply the deficiency of the sentence, by adding, and these false gods, James Burns, the "professional borer" & Co.? These false gods and their tool or tools, fully know what a leading voice is worth. They know the value of "a seconding, a third, or a fourth." And they know equally well the value of a casting vote, either aye or nay, which, to them, turns up a trump. And do they not, in the end, share the dividends? Does not the writer admit this? And does he not at the same time endeavor, whether ironically or otherwise, labor to make it appear that Meek is the only honest man and a leader in the House? Of course, then, according to the writers own showing, Meek, being smart and independent, well qualified and a leader in the legislative body, always comes in for his share of the "divy." Hence the Brick three-story building.

Now, every person knows that the Senate is Democratic, yet the writer of the Watchman article declares, and here is his own language:

"While what we have said applies to "the House, let it not be understood that "the Senate is free from the same ani-"madversions. Here, too, the same sub-"serviency and truckling is daily to be "witnessed. Sychophants there, too,

"Bend the pregnant hinges of the knee,
That thrift may follow fawing."

"Nor is this state of things chargeable "to any particular party—here are men "of both political organizations who

"Lost to honor, manhood, self,
And bound alone by love of pelf.',

Now, we ask in the name of all the gods at once, upon what meat does this our Ceasar (our Meek) feed, that he has grown so great? He does not like pelf. No! no! not he. Surely we have found the honest man, and he is not "a steward."

Unfortunately for Mr. Meek, however, his name did not appear in the Harrisburg Patriot's list of honest members, published two years ago. "Why is this thus"? When did Meek reform? Oh, how passing strange that he is the only honest man in the House, while there are Democratic sychophants in the Democratic Senate? By all means, Democrats of Centre, send back this honest (?) man, not "a steward," for he burns with most intense and flagrant zeal to serve his country. Fred. Kurtz, Capt. Hunter, Chester Munson and all other aspirants for legislative honors, stand aside, ye, for Meek is holier than ye—he is honest, (?) capable (?) and true, (?) and the only man who will not bend the

"Suppliant hinges of the knee," &c.

It would be a shame not to send him back after thus exposing the rascality and corruption of his Democratic brethren in the Senate.

And now, since we commenced with poetry we will end with poetry; one little verse, which describes our member more true to the life than the Watchman article. Here it is:

"A close State leech, who sticking to the nation,
As adders deaf to honor's execration,
Sucks from its throat the blood by night, by day,
Nor till the State expires, will drop away."

"PROFESSIONAL BORERS."—"Long experience enables the professional "borers" (Burns & Co.,) to measure his man and as his appliances are many and his ways dark, he manages to entrap all who have not armed themselves against the seducer."—Watchman.

Of course we insert the name of Burns & Co., just out of respect to the old General, who has long since measured Meek, who of course was, according to his own showing, proof "against the wiles of the seducer." Cruel, cruel Burns! Honest, pure, unsycophantic Meek! What a contrast! But who would have thought it? "For ways that are dark and tricks that are vain," these fellows are peculiar. Nobody honest (?) but Meek.

"Blow ye, the trumpet, blow,"

WITH a wisdom far beyond its years—and it is pretty old, too—the Columbus (Ohio) State Journal remarks: "In politics it is not the emotion of friendship to each other that draws men together it is a feeling of a common dislike for somebody else. Sumner and Thurman turned loose on a desert island would hate each other. Add Grant, and Sumner and Thurman become friends."

[From the Utica Herald.]

WILL THEY GIVE US PEACE?

The day for denying the existence of the disloyal organization so long known as the southern Ku-Klux Klan, has gone by. No respectable democratic journal will longer indulge in such denial. The evidence is too strong and the confession too open and general to permit of it. Not only is the existence of the Ku-Klux admitted by southern journals and judges, but by southern Congressmen on the floors of Congress; and so odious is this organization that democrats feel called upon to deny their own and their friends' connection with it.

But such denial is not proof that they do not sympathize with it. It is notorious that leading democrats of the South manage to keep themselves in a condition to deny, without uttering direct falsehood, that they belong to the Ku-Klux; and yet they are quite as guilty as the most active members. They are the instigators, encourages and abettors of this band of outlaws, giving advice and furnishing money and shelter to the depredators.

This is the position of a large number of the "most respectable" citizens and democrats of the South. But the joint committee of seventeen will smoke them out between this and next December. This fact seems to be recognized by the democrats in Congress. Hence we read in the telegraphic news, dated Washington, the 18th, that "the southern democratic members of the House, in caucus to-day, resolved to advise their constituents to afford every facility to the joint committee for ascertaining the truth concerning the violations of law in that section of the country."

This is a great advance on anything that has gone before; and, if adhered to and carried out in good faith, it is the death-knell of the Ku-Klux Klan. For, if southern democrats is good faith "afford every facility" to the joint committee, the whole matter will be so thoroughly investigated and ventilated that the remedy can and will at once be applied to the outlawry and violence which has, for the last few years, made the life of the southern loyalist a terror and a burden.

And, further, if these same southern democrats will co-operate with the authorities to protect life and property and preserve law and order, no extraordinary remedy will be needed. They have it in their power, by discountenancing outlawry and violence, and assisting in bringing depredators to justice, to restore peace, harmony and prosperity to the South and to the whole country. Will they do it? Or, are they now only assuming a deceptive attitude for the purpose of the more effectually betraying the government and serving the cause of violence and rebellion? We confess, we are unable to determine. The experience of the past bids us beware. The interests of the future bid us hope.

But one thing we do know, and it has been true at any and all times since the close of the war:—If the northern democratic leaders choose to do it, they can at once restore order throughout the South by discountenancing the revolutionary attitude which they have heretofore encouraged. If they will say to the southern democracy: "No more of this. We have had enough of disturbance and threatened revolution. You must accept the results of the war which you invited, and henceforth sustain 'the Union as it is,' with all the new guarantees"—there will be an end of the persecution of loyal citizens in the South. By assuming this attitude, they would crush forever all hopes of reversing the results of the war and of restoring the "lost cause." With these hopes would go all further resistance to the laws and the authorities, quiet would be restored in the South, confidence would be restored in the North, and harmony and prosperity would be restored to the country. It would be a new and lasting declaration of peace and amity.

All this is within the power of the leaders of the democracy to accomplish, by assuming a truly patriotic attitude, such as every American citizen should assume. Will they assume it? Will they give us peace?

ONCE under the improper influence of certain parties, (Burns & Co.,) there is no escape. To break away is to be exposed.—Watchman.

The dear fellow! How much this reminds us of the "Stop thief" cry. He can run and bellow, stop thief, but to "break away is to be exposed." He merits the approbation of all honest men for this exposure, and should, if Burns commands, be sent back.

THE DEMOCRATIC SENATE CORRUPT.

The Watchman last week in an article to which we have already referred, says: "Let it not be understood that the Senate (Democratic) is free from the same animadversions" and adds, "Sycophants there too." This is Democratic testimony, going to show the wickedness and corruption of the Democratic Senate. Will any Democrat doubt Meek's testimony? How can you? He is your leader, your honest (?) member and the Editor and Proprietor of your organ. If this be true then you must believe that there are Democratic sycophants, who have sacrificed their manhood for pelf in the State Senate, and you cannot fail to believe the Editor of the Philadelphia Press when he says, that, "By an accident, regretted as unfortunate at the time, but which in the end may prove a blessing in disguise, the Democratic party last December secured a majority in the State Senate, and ever since it has been rolling up a record of shame and dishonor. Measures of the utmost importance, and demanded by the necessities of the people, have been defeated, and no legislation accomplished save that which served a partisan end. An attempt has been made to fasten an infamous apportionment scheme on the State, and even now an active conspiracy is on foot to repeal the Philadelphia registry law, and to turn over the control of this city to the worst class of criminals that fasten themselves on the politics of a great city. The annual appropriation bill is threatened; the local option law, after having passed the House, suspends in the Senate, and the temperance men are insulted and driven from Harrisburg. All the corrupt legislation of the session, and the failure to pass such as was necessary, can be traced to the Democratic Senate. The responsibility belongs to that party, and must rest with it.

THE NEW APPORTIONMENT.

The apportionment bill introduced in the Senate by Mr. Harlan provides that after March 8, 1873, the House of Representatives shall consist of 280 members, apportioned as follows:

Maine	5	Ohio	19
New Hampshire	2	Kentucky	10
Vermont	2	Tennessee	9
Massachusetts	11	Indiana	13
Rhode Island	2	Illinois	18
Connecticut	4	Missouri	12
New York	32	Arkansas	4
New Jersy	7	Michigan	9
Pennsylvania	26	Florida	1
Delaware	1	Texas	6
Maryland	6	Iowa	9
Virginia	9	Wisconsin	8
North Carolina	8	California	4
South Carolina	5	Minnesota	3
Georgia	9	Oregon	1
Alabama	7	Kansas	5
Mississippi	6	West Virginia	2
Louisiana	5	Nebraska	1

Any new State admitted shall be entitled to a Representative or Representatives, in addition to the 280 named in the bill. The following States shall be entitled to additional members of Forty Second Congress, to be elected on a general ticket at a general election during 1871, if there be one, and if not, a special election shall be called:—New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Georgia, Texas, Wisconsin, and Kansas, two each; Massachusetts, New York, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Alabama, Mississippi, California, and Minnesota, one each, and Illinois four.

REBEL.

The Democrats, says the Sabine City (Texas) Union, do not like to be called rebels; if the creatures who run the machine, ever looked at anything but a dictionary of slang, they would probably be able to discover that it is nothing short of rebellion, with its present organization. In the widest sense it means utter destruction, abrogation, demolishing and annulling.

If the name of rebel does not suit the Democracy, then that organized hypocrisy has had no appropriate name, and can have none hereafter, we are sure it would not last long now, under the charge of such usurpers, as for their being in favor of Union it is an aggravation of the original fraud, for the party never was in favor of the Union, and is not now, as is shown by the spirit that pervades their meetings. Democrats need not carp about an epithet so well adapted to its party, and nothing more.

Dr Pierce's Alt. Ext. or Golden Medical Discovery, will not raise the dead, but it will benefit and cure the living. For all severe Coughs, Throat and Bronchial diseases it has never yet been equaled. For "Liver Complaint" or "Biliousness," and Constipation of the Bowels it is a never failing remedy.—Sold by druggists.

THE ENEMY OF THE PEOPLE.

The Philadelphia Press an ably conducted paper and one of the ablest advocates of the doctrine of Protection to American labor, says: The Democracy is fast arraying itself in deadly opposition to the great industries upon which thousands of our people depend for support. Its representatives, no matter how loyal they may be to a tariff before they are elected, as soon as they reach Washington are to be found voting with the free traders. It is no fault of Messrs. Meyers, Haldeman and Acker that the tariff on coal is not repealed. From policy and not from principle a few of their representatives still ally themselves with the protectionists, but the tendency of the party in this State is to follow the example set it elsewhere, and the New York World declares that the Democratic party is the party of free trade. This is a State matter which touches our dearest interests, and it must be made an issue. There may be an honest difference of opinion on the tariff, or any subject, in the Republican party—our usages allow it; but the Democracy are too thoroughly disciplined for this, and what we look upon as independence they regard as insubordination. We shall carry Pennsylvania next fall on the issue which the Democratic representatives at Harrisburg and Washington have been making all the winter.

WHAT A DEMOCRATIC TRIUMPH WOULD MEAN.—A Southern paper remarks that the N. Y. Tribune begins to realize what the Union men of the South have long known, that the animus and purposes of the Democratic party are vicious and treasonable, and that it seeks to gain control of the nation only to betray and ruin it. The Tribune says: A Democratic national triumph means a restoration to power of those who deserted their seats in Congress and their places under the last Democratic President to plunge the country into the Red Sea of Secession and Rebellion. Though you paint an inch thick, to this complexion you must come at last. The brain, the heart, the soul, of the present Democratic party is the Rebel element at the South, with its Northern allies and sympathizers. It is Rebel at the core today, hardly able to reconcile the defeats of Lee, Johnson, Bragg, Hood and Price, and the consequent downfall of its beloved Confederacy with its traditional faith in Divine Providence. It would hail the election of the Democratic President in 1872 as a virtual reversal of the Appomattox surrender. It would come into power with the hate, the chagrin, the wrath, the mortification of ten bitter years, to impel and guide its steps and would hail the tidings of national bankruptcy with unalloyed gladness and unconcealed exultation. Whatever may be deserved by our National sins, we must hope that this disgrace and humiliation will be spared us.

IF it be true that President Grant has appointed Col. John W. Forney, Collector of the Port of Philadelphia, many people will be surprised, in view of the manly and independent criticism of the Press of the course of the President's friends in ousting Mr. Sumner from the Foreign Relations Committee. But if Col. Forney accepts the post, the Government will get an intelligent and faithful officer, whose claims upon the administration for efficient service, are far stronger than most of its appointees. Doubtless the friends of the various disappointed applicants for the Collectorship will find fault with the President's selection; but the mass of the Republican party will commend it. We take some pride as journalists in acknowledging the compliment the President pays to the profession in choosing one of its most prominent members for a high and honorable position.—Phil'a Bulletin.

THE fact is noted as exceedingly significant that throughout the whole debate on and in consideration of the matter of Southern outrages, Senator Sumner has not uttered one word, has not once lifted up his voice in behalf of the poor white and colored victims of the hellish cruelty of the Ku Klux. He has been so intent upon matters personal to himself that he cannot find time for aid of an oppressed race in our own borders; and then, too, the comforting sympathies of the Democrats, so profusely tendered, might be checked by an ordinary expression of Sumner's real views on such questions. There has never been seen such love-making between political enemies as has transpired on the floor of the Senate during the past three weeks between Mr. Sumner and the Democratic Senators, and such old Democratic foxes as Reverdy Johnson and Geo. H. Pendleton.—Exchange.

For the REPUBLICAN.

WHITHER ARE WE DRIFTING?

During the last decade Republicans deemed it unnecessary to give this question any important consideration except as it related to the glorious destiny of the party.

The great work it had accomplished for the country, the sacrifices it had made in rescuing the Union from the thraldom of rebellion, and the principles of public policy, it had inaugurated were themes which had been elaborated by every patriotic statesman in the land. But it seemed that no one had the courage to look into the vortex of party disintegration, and sum up the issues of such a dire calamity.

True, party ascendency was the agitating question, which entered into every campaign, where Republican and Democratic principles were surrendered to the crucible of public opinion; but while victory perched not always upon the Republican banner, the question of party disintegration had not been seriously contemplated and the dismemberment of the Republican party was not deemed a matter worthy of serious consideration.

But there are now certainly, some grounds for fear. What high tariffs—for revenue; what the acquisition of foreign territory did for parties in the past; and what the Kansas Nebraska Bill and its consequent total ramifications through the whole body politic did in the more immediate past, may with some reason be regarded as probable in the future.

History is forever repeating itself; and it is now high time that the Republican party was looking well to the possibilities of its permanent maintenance among the powers that be. There is no adequate cause for swerving from any Republican principle. They are grounded on truth, and are the offspring of patriotic and honest adherence to the doctrine of great good to the masses.

The only fear is that, while we forget the great principles upon which the party is founded, we follow after the dictations of one man or any set of men, as to what should constitute our practical duties. If the party would only adopt as its motto: We can live either with or without Charles Sumner or San Domingo, there would be no fear as to its ultimate and triumphant future.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March, 30th 1871.

ONCE IN A WHILE.

KUKLUX law in Dixie may drive Northern men under the sod or over the border, but it also drives down the price of land. It would be well for the landed wealth of the Southern States to bear this in mind. Intellectual exertion has not generally been an incident of chivalry, but even a high-toned, chivalrous bowie-knife gentleman of the first water might stop long enough to think of this and endeavor to compass the argument. A gentleman—and a Democrat, by the way—largely interested in Southern real estate, who arrived in Wasington a few days ago, says that, owing to the disturbed condition of affairs by reason of the Kuklux outrages in most of the Southern States, property has only a nominal value; and relates, as evidence of this, the fact that only last week a large mansion house, with two hundred acres of ground, on the main land, near Fort Sumpter, South Carolina, sold for $4,500. "A word to the wise, &c.," we should say were we talking to them.

BETTER, far better, were it for many who have been sent to the Legislature had they remained in their workshops—or offices, (?) at their plows or desks, and retained their own self-respect and the good opinion of their neighbors.—Watchman.

How selfish and unkind, as well as honest (?) is P. G. Meek? What is this but a heart-thrust at Jacob G. Meyer and Fred. Kurtz. Gentlemen, you were not sharp. You had no experience and were not honest, if we believe the Watchman. But it corroborates what we have always said, to wit: that old Centre should send a good Republican.

HOW TO GET RID OF RATS.—Some humane man, one who don't believe in hurting dumb brutes, gives the following recipes for driving away rats and mice: Put potash in their holes and runs. The poor wretches get it on their feet, and over their fur, then they lick it and don't like the taste of it; it burns them somewhat and the more they see of it the less they like it; so they clear out almost as soon as the application is made. To get rid of mice, the same person used tartar-emetic with any favorite food; they take it, take sick, and take their leave.

BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN.

BELLEFONTE, PA.

THE YOUNG HUSBAND'S DILEMMA.

John had just married and brought home a bride,
A graceful and buxom and beautiful miss;
And when at the alter he stood by her side,
It seemed the last drop in his full cup of bliss.

Indeed, she was one of the fairest of creatures;
Her lips were like rubies, her teeth white as pearl;
The rose might have borrowed its hue from her features,
The sunlight was mocked by her bright golden curls.

With feasting and music the bright moments flew,
Till midnight approached, and the bride and her groom,
After bidding their friends and companions adieu,
Retired—together of course—to their room.

There her beautiful wreath, and her gossamer veil,
On the top of the bureau she carefully laid,
Then placing her dress, with its long silken trail,
O'er the back of the chair by the side of the bed.

And then one by one—but I can't tell the name
Of the various garments, embroidered and white—
Nor the feeling that over the young husband came,
As he sat and observed her disrobe for the night.

But many a brilliant illusion, I ween,
The possession of such a position dispels
To a man who has heard, but never yet seen,
That wonderful process, the peeling of belles.

So John felt, on seeing those beautiful curls,
Those glorious masses of bright golden hair,
And the teeth he admired—they were whiter than pearls—
All laid in a box that she placed on a chair.

Meantime to that box something more caught his eye,
To show how the artist Dame Nature can mock,
A full and judiciously chosen supply
Of cosmestics ad lib., rouge, enamel and chalk.

From her cheeks came her plumpers—which lest she should loose 'em,
She placed in her toilet box, too, with the rest;
Then swiftly detached the full palpitant bosom
Her lover, so fondly, so blindly had pressed.

Then placed on the chair the huge cushions she wore,
When the husband was still more than ever nonplussed,
To see what he had never witnessed before—
A fair woman's bustle abreast of her bust.

Then touching a spring that was hidden somewhere,
Her lower limbs parted precisely in halves,
And she laid on the alter—I mean on the chair,
Her last sacrifice—a pair of fat calves.

Her dissection completed, she plunged under cover,
Like a lath that might into a rivulet drop—
Then tenderly asked of her motionless lover,
"My darling, how long do you mean to sit up?"

"My dear, I'm quite undecided," he said,
"What course in the case would be proper and fair—
To follow the fraction that got into bed,
Or stay up with the part that is plied on the chair?"

A Wag Discourses of Queen Elizabeth.

Here is the latest outbreak of eccentric humor:

Queen Elizabeth is dead, It doesn't make any matter how we got the information. This is none of our fight—this quarrel between the associated press and its rival. We've received the news, and that's enough. She died two hundred and sixty-eight years ago the twenty fourth of last month. She survived until the vital spark had fled, and then she saw it was of no use resisting the inscrutable decree of fate, and so her unfettered soul took its flight into the mysterious void, and settled down in that bourne from which no traveler returns unless he has a mission to jerk chairs around and rap on tables for the benefit of mediums and other long-haired wild-eyed lunatics.

Queen Elizabeth was a virgin—a vergin' on seventy; and yet the fire gleamed as brightly as ever in her cream-colored eye, and the delicate sheen of her finely tinted maroon nose contrasted as forcibly as in her youth with the alabaster of her brow; and the plugs in her teeth were just as valuable as when gold was at 156.

She had no small vices. She did not smoke or chew or belong to the society for the promotion of cruelty to animals. And when she swore, she never decended to the vulgarity of Horace Greeley—Queen Elizabeth didn't. When she used profanity, she gave it with a finish, an elegance, a delicate airy grace, and infused into it a luxurious abandon, and rounded it off carefully at the corners, and dressed it up with well selected poetical adjectives, so that it sounded like a strain from some sweet singer, like some sweet singer straining himself, in fact. And she had red hair.

Her chignon was burglar proof. And often, in the dim twilight of evening, when the sun had sunk to rest, when the western sky was filled with tender radiance and lambent light, and the bulbul wooed the rose in the back yard, she would play a few notes upon her harpsichord, or write a Latin hymn or an essay upon the Harrison boiler. She was supposed to be the author of "Rock Me to Sleep, Mother," and "Beautiful Snow," and "Five o'Clock in the Morning." But nevertheless she was a very estimable woman, and with all her faults we love her still—better, indeed, than if she were still fooling around.

Queen Elizabeth was not proud. She always insisted upon cleaning her own teeth, even if she was a queen; and she always did it once a week, every Sunday morning, with her own tooth brush. What a lesson does it teach to those who are haughty and vain, and belong to the bon-ton! She never forgot that she was mere perishable dust, and that the sheep and the silkworm wore her fine clothes long before she got them. She read every Sunday school book that taught these facts; and she once trod on Sir Walter Raleigh's cloak to remind him of them, because he was so set up with his new fancy cassimeres. She said upon her death bed that Lydia Thompson need not learn this lesson, because it had no moral for those who browsed round in nature's simple garb.

Queen Elizabeth was not sorry to die. She foresaw that George F. Train was coming to England, and she said to her physicians that she would prefer the enduring peace of the cold and silent grave to three weeks of George and the Alabama controversy and the Schleswig-Holstein question all at the same time. Her last words were, "Kill Horace Greeley before he has a chance to write 'What I Know About Farming.'" There was not a dry eye in that second-story front room. Everybody was thinking how impossible it was to fulfill her dying request, and to escape so much misery.

But she has now gone; she has left us; we shall see her no more. Perhaps it is for the best. She was a vigorous woman, and if she had lived she might have come to America, and we might have given her offence, and she might have pranced around here and flogged us like the very nation. For she was a woman who followed closely in all the prevailing fashions. And so we are glad she is dead, and has four tons of marble planted on her to hold her down.

Rest in peace, old girl! Rest in pieces!

How the Wife Felt.

A man at whose house I was a guest, told me that he had been a hard drinker and a cruel husband; had beaten his poor wife until she had almost become used to it. "But," said he, "the very moment I signed the pledge, I thought of my wife—what would my wife say to this? Strange, that I should think of my wife the first thing, but I did; and as I was going home I said to myself, Now, if I go home, and tell her all of a sudden that I have signed the pledge, she'll faint away, or she'll up and do something; and I must break it to her by degrees.' Only think of it! Why, the night before, I'd have knocked her down, just as like as not, if she hadn't looked to please me, and now I am planing to break the good news to her, for fear it would upset her."

As near as I could gather from what he told me, he found his wife setting over the embers, waiting for him. As he came into the house, he said: "Nancy, I think that ——" "Well, Ned, what is it?" "Why, I think I shall—that Is—I mean to—to—Nancy, I mean—"

"What's the matter, Ned? Anything the matter?" "Yes, said he, "the matter's just this—I have signed the temperance pledge, and so help me God, I'll keep it."

She started to her feet, and she did faint away. I was just in time to catch her; and as she lay in my arms, her eyes shut and her face so pale, thinks I "She's dead, and I've done it now.' But she wasn't dead; she opened her eyes, and then she put her arm round my neck, and I didn't know she was so strong, as she pulled and pulled till she got me down where I had not been for thirty years—on my knees. Then she said, "Oh, God! help my poor Ned, and strengthen him to keep his pledge," and I hollered "Amen!" just as loud as I could holler. That was the first time we ever knelt together, but it was not the last.

IDLE GIRLS.—It is a painful spectacle in families, where the mother is the drudge, to see the daughters, elegantly dressed, reclining at their ease with their drawing, their music, their fancy work, and their reading, beguiling themselves of lapse of hours, days and weeks; never dreaming of their responsibilities; but, as a necessary consequence of neglect of duty, growing weary of their useless lives, laying hold of every newly invented stimulant to rouse their drooping energies, and blaming their fate, when they dare not blame their God, for having placed them where they are. These individuals will often tell you with an air of affected compassion (for who can believe it real) that poor dear mamma is working herself to death; yet no sooner do you propose that they should assist her, than they declare she is quite in her element; in short, that she would never be happy, if she only had half so much to do.

AN exchange says: We were considerably amused the other evening at three little girls playing among the brush in the yard. Two of them were making believe keep house, a few yards distant from each other—neighbors as it were. One of them says to the third little girl, "there now, Nellie, you go to Sarah's house, and stop a little while and talk, and then you come back and tell me what she says about her, and you go and tell her all I say—and then we'll get mad and won't speak to each other, just like our mothers do, you know; Oh! that will be such fun."

A newly arrived contraband from South Carolina, who asked for lodgings at the New Haven station house the other night, wore no less than six coats, and in the pocket of one a bottle containing a taste of "Jersey lightening" was found When it was produced, the mendicant, with an air of indignation, exclaimed — "Who put dat ar bottle in my pocket?—De man dat did dat ar am no fren of mine."

Sixteen Reasons.

A writer in one of our exchanges gives the following plain and forcible reasons for abstinence from the use of intoxicating liquors as a beverage. It is a view sanctioned both by religion and common sense:

1. Because ale, porter, gin, rum, brandy, etc, all contain a spirit which is calculated to derange the human system.

2 Because none of these drinks, as an habitual beverage, are ever useful, but always injurious to persons in health, and many professing Christians, both young and old, have been ruined by them.

3. Because drunkenness is a besetting sin, and leads to idleness, quarrelling, swearing, fighting, stealing, adultery, murder, and almost every other sin, and finally to eternal misery.

4. Because drinking produces poverty bankruptcy, destruction of property, loss of reason, disease and premature death.

5. Because a great deal of valuable time, labor and capital, are worse than wasted upon making, vending and using these drinks.

6. Because over seventy millions of money, being more than the whole revenue, are annually expended upon them in the United Kingdon, which ought to be laid out in food and manufactures.

7. Because nearly six millions of bushels of good grain are annually destroyed in this Christian land to make those liquors, while the markets are high and many of the poor are starving.

8. Because intemperance obstructs the progress of civilization, education the religion of Jesus, and every useful reform.

9. Because abstinence is sure and safe, but drinking moderately is dangerous, and has lead to all the drunkenness in the world.

10. Because I find I cannot effectually warn the drunkard, or set him an example, unless I am myself an entire abstainer.

11. Because I like to join those who are exerting themselves to promote the temporal and spiritual reformation and happiness of man.

12. Because it is important to set a safe example of perfect sobriety to our children, friends and associates.

13. Because it is our Christian duty to deny ourselves even of lawful things to promote the happiness of others.

14. Because, while millions in time and eternity have repented of drinking, not one has ever repented of abstaining.

15. Because, while no blessing is pronounced upon drinking, God's approval is frequently recorded in favor of abstinence. (See Jer. xxxv; Luke i, 15; Rom. xiv, 21; Prov. xx, 1.)

16. Because I should be ashamed to touch, taste, handle, or keep in my house, the article which is filling the land with dissipation, vice, poverty, misery, lamentation and woe.

IT may be an old joke, but a good one told of an old clergyman at the east, who has the most unbounded faith in Watt's hymns. A mischievous son of his thought it would be a good joke to test his father's faith. So he took an old song and pasted it in one of the pages of the book, over a hymn, so nicely that it could not easily be detected. At Church, on Sabbath morning, the minister happened to open on that very page, and commenced to read,

"Old Grimes is dead."

There was a sensation in the audience He looked at the choir, and they looked at him; but such was his faith in Watt's hymns that he undertook it again, commencing with the same line. There was another sensation in the audience. Looking at the choir, he said: "Brethren, it is here in regular order in Watt's hymn-book, and we'll sing it anyhow."

INTERPRETATION OF DREAMS.—To dream of a millstone around your neck is a sign of what you may expect if you should get an extravagant wife. When a young lady dreams of a coffin it betokens that she should instantly discontinue lacing her stays, and always go warmly and thickly shod in wet weather. To dream of fire is a sign that—if you are wise—you will see that the lights in your house are out before you go to bed. To dream that your nose is red at the tip is an intimation that you had better leave off brandy and drink water.

HENRY WARD BEECHER says: 'There is nothing more offensive to me than to be greeted in that rough religious way, "Well, brother Beecher, how is your soul to-day?" None of your business. It is a kind of familiarity I don't relish. If my father were to come to me on the ferry-boat, and put his arms around my neck, I should look up with pleasure, but should a stranger do the same thing, I should resent the action as an insult.—And what I won't permit to be done to my body, I shall not tolerate on my soul."

—A farmer who wished to invest the accumulation of his industry in United States securities, went to a broker's office to obtain treasury notes. The clerk inquired, "What denomination will you have them, sir?" Having never heard that word used excepting to distinguish religious sects, the farmer, after a little deliberation, replied: "Well, you may give me part in Old School Presbyterian, to please the old lady, but give me the heft on't in Free Will Baptist."

Gleanings.

—"Money makes the man." Perhaps it does; but Punch thinks it particularly necessary that man should make money first.

—"What time is it Tom?" "Just time to pay that little account you owe me." "Oh, indeed! well, I didn't think it was half so late."

—There are two eventful periods in the life of a woman: one when she wonders whom she will have, the other when she wonders who will have her.—Jean Paul.

—At New York a short time ago, a person applied to the proper court to be divorced from his wife because she would persist in putting her cold feet against him when in bed.

—There is something to imitate even in the uncivilized Chinaman. They celebrate their holidays by paying their debts, forgiving their enemies, and "shaking hands all round.

—There are no means for the education of our race which can in any degree be compared to a domestic life in its purity. Domestic life in its essence is a bond of love, and through this a divine institution to beget love.

—A brutal old bachelor declares that pretty women kiss one another on coming into a room because it is a graceful custom; they do the same on going away because they are delighted to lose sight of one another.

—Cheerfulness is just as natural to the heart of a man in strong health as color to his cheek; and wherever there is habitual gloom there must be either bad air unwholesome food, improperly severe labor, or erring habits of life.

—In court the other day, a witness being asked how he knew that a man and woman were husband and wife replied, "because he had often heard the lady blow the gentleman up." The evidence was held to be conclusive.

—How sweet a thing is love of home. It is not acquired it is a feeling that has its origin elsewhere. It is born with us, brought from another world to carry us on with joy in this. It attaches to the humblest heart that ever throbbed.

—"Mother," said a sprightly girl of nineteen, "they say marriages are made in heaven; do you think they are?" "Why, my dear, it is a very general opinion." "Well, perhaps they are; but they seem a long time in coming down to some of us."

—"Never," says a henpecked man, "marry a woman worth more than thou art. When I married my wife I was worth fifty cents, and she was worth sixty-two cents; and when any difference has occurred between us she throws up the odd shilling."

—A Gentleman speaking of the happiness of the married state before his daughter, despairingly said: "She who marries does well, but she who does not marry does better." "Well, then," said the young lady, "I will do well; let those who choose do better."

—One of the most important female qualities is sweetness of temper. Heaven did not give to women insinuation and persuasion in order to be surly; it did not make them weak in order to be imperious; it did not give them a sweet voice to be employed in scolding.

—It is a good rule not absolutely to despise the opinion of blockheads. An ox, says a writer, is a stupid sort of an animal but an irritated ox is dangerous, especially if one can't get out of his way. The quadruped ox and the biped ass have a strong resemblance in this particular.

—"Don't put too much confidence in a lover's vows and sighs," said our Mrs. Partington to her niece; "let him tell you that you have lips like strawberries and cream, cheeks like a carnation, and an eye like an asterisk; but such things oftener come from a tender head than a tender heart."

—"I think," says Dr. John Brown, of Edinburg, "that every family should have a dog. It is like a perpetual baby; and then it betrays no secrets, never sulks, asks no troublesome questions, never gets into debt, never comes down late to breakfast, and it is always ready for a bit of fun."

—A Young lady once observed, "When I go to the theatre, I am very careless of my dress, as the audience are too attentive to the play to observe my wardrobe; but when I go to church I am very particular in my outward appearance, as most people go there to see how their neighbors dress and deport themselves."

—A negro who was near his end was questioned by a clergymen as to the state of his mind. His replies were all very well until he came to the article of forgiveness: "Me forgib eberybody but Sam S——." "But can you not forgive him?" "Why yes, if me die me forgib him; but if me lib to get well me gib him anoder knock."

Speech of Dr. Ayer.

A new town named Ayer was recently chartered by the Legislature of Massachusetts, and on the occasion of its inauguration a brilliant celebration took place, which was attended by all classes from far and near. The preliminaries having been gone through with, Dr. J. C. Ayer, known the world over as the inventor of some of the best medicines ever made, was introduced to the audience and spoke as follows:

Ladies and Gentlemen:

On the western coasts of Scotland where it slopes into the Irish Sea, a river, rising on the mountains of the inner land, winds down among the hills and empties into the Frith of Clyde. From remote time it has been called Ayr from an old Scotch word "Ayry," meaning an eagle's nest—the river of the eagle's nest. Near its mouth and a contiguous harbor, long stood a hamlet which became a royal burg or town named from the river, and now about one-third as large as Lowell—the city of Ayr. For more than a thousand years it has been noted in the history of Scotland. During the wars of Robert Bruce it was one of his resorts, and was especially favored by him because he was there cured of leprosy. Oliver Cromwell made it one of the depots and headquarters of his army in his attack upon Scotland, and one of his old forts is now the Citadel of Ayr.

But above all its distinctions, Ayr was the birth-place of the poet Burns. And what a poet! What a voice has he given to all the endearments of home! How has he hallowed the cottage and all it covers—weans and wife, patches and poverty, beans, barley, ale, hardship and the poor man's toil. How he wraps with tenderness whatever he names, even his bleak leagues of pasture, the stubble field, ice, snow, sleet, and rain, brooks, birds, mice, thistles and heather. His Bonny Doon, John Anderson, my Jo John, Auld Lang Syne, and Highland Mary roll round the world in ever ringing symphony with what is purest and best in human nature. His songs woo and melt the hearts of youth and maidens, bring solace to the sorrowing and courage to the overburdened by their lot. His inspiration has set the affections to music in strains that are immortal.

No other one man ever made a language classic., but he has rendered that lowland Scotch a Doric dialect of fame. The name of his home and his beloved river Ayr was lifted on the wings of his pathes, and now the approaching traveler yearns to reach the spot his genius has sanctified.

Along the borders of the sea in a parallelogram and surrounding the town is a county of the same name—Ayrshire.

It would weary your patience to hear the history of my ancestors from one ancient John of Ayr, then John Ayr, down through the centuries to this Ayer now before you, through their vicissitudes of poverty and plenty—of fortune and misfortune; how they have intermarried with England, Ireland and Scotland, and later with the Americans, who are an excellent mixture of them all.

My friends,—you have chosen the name I inherited for your town with an extraordinary unanimity, and have thereby conferred an honor upon me, the proper acknowledgment of which I do not feel fully able to express. But I beg you to be assured that it is appreciated and that it will be gratefully remembered with a living interest in your prosperity while life remains to me, and, I trust, beyond that by my children after me.

If this name has become noted among the many that are worthier around you, that is greatly due to its publicity. May I be permitted to state whence that came? Until within a few centuries all the civilized nations of the globe were pent up on the Eastern continent. Two or three hundred years ago they leaked over into this; few and fearfully at first, then more and more but always in their settlements timidly hugging the Atlantic coast. Within the last two or three generations, they have burst out, as it were, and over-run these vast continents of the West. Now they are scattered here and possess these measureless stretches of mountains and valleys, hills, plains, forests and prairies with the boundless pampas and mountain ranges of South America. Former generations lived in villages and towns, thickly settled together where physicians were plenty and near at hand. Now, the people are widely scattered, in many sections of these many countries. For great numbers the timely treatment of physicians cannot be had; over large tracts of country good or competent physicians cannot be had at all. They can not visit patients enough many miles apart to live by their profession, nor can they carry medicines enough with them on horseback for their requirements. Hence has arisen in these modern times, a necessity for remedies ready at hand, with directions for their use—a present recourse for relief in the exigencies of sickness, when no other aid is near. It is a new necessity consequent upon the changed conditions of human life—a want I have spent my years in supplying, and I will tell you something of its extent. Our laboratory makes every day some 630,000 potions or doses of our preparations. These are all taken by somebody. Here is a number equal to the population of fifteen cities as large as Lowell, taking them every day (for sickness keeps no Sabbaths) nor for once only, but again and again year after year, through nearly one third of a century. We all join in the jokes about medicines as we do about the Doctor's mission to kill, the clergyman's insincerity and the lawyer's cheating. Yet each of these labors among the most serious realities of life. Sickness and its attendant suffering are no joke, neither is the treatment of them. This system of transportable relief, to be made available to the people, must keep its remedies fresh in their memories. This is done by advertising. Mark its extent. An advertisement, taking the run of the newspapers with which we contract (some 1900 annually) is struck upon each other flat wise, like the leaves of a book, the thickness through them is sixteen miles. In addition, it takes some seven millions of pamphlets and twelve millions of circulars to meet the public demand for this kind of information. Our annual issue of pamphlets alone, laid solid upon each other, make a pile eight and one quarter miles high. The circulars measured endwise reach 1894 miles, and these assertions are matters of mathematical certainty. Whatever the estimation in which these publications may be held here, they reach the firesides of millions upon millions of men who do treasure and regard them, and who in their trials do heed the counsel they bring.

Not only over these great Western continents but throughout that other land so little known to you, under our feet, the Australian continent, there are few villages as large as this which are not familiar with the name you have chosen, and employing the remedies that bear it.

Thus, gentlemen, have I striven in my humble sphere to render some service to my fellow men, and to deserve among the afflicted and unfortunate some regard for the name which your kind partiality hangs on these walls around me. We may look forward with confident hope to the renown you will gather under it, and the prosperity which there is reason to trust the future has in store for you. Situated as you are here on one of the main arteries between the west and east, between the great industries of the plough and the spindle you must aid in their exchanges and thrive with them. Soon these channels will be opened wide and poring through your precincts streams of men and merchandise that will need your furtherance and must contribute to your growth.

Located here in the centre of New England to what dearer spot can you turn that men inhabit? Beginning life rich with the honors of your mother town whose influence through her schools and her scholars is of itself an inheritance, with such examples as Lawrence, Boutwell, Hoar, what may you not hope for of usefulness in the councils of the state and nation?

Contrast our condition with that of the European nations, alternately torn and impoverished with wars, credit it as you may to the better education of the people, and you will realize the value of the example old mother Groton has set you, so worthy of your ambition to follow. Build schools for your children and find talent to teach them, then intelligence and integrity in prosperous and happy homes will be your sure reward.

Associated as you have made me with your weal and wo, I wish I might be allowed to contribute from my means such as they are, something towards this first foundation of the public good.

Gentlemen, I have detained you too long. Oppressed with the fear, that I do not deserve the distinction you bestow, I pray God to make me worthier, and to smile upon you with His perpetual blessings.

THE following announcement lately appeared in a Chester county, (Pa.,) paper "To be married, if divinely permitted, Joseph Brinton and Annie M. Howland, at the residence of the former, near Ereildoun, Chester county, Pa., a public meeting be appointed for the purpose on sixth day, the 16th inst., at two o'clock in the afternoon. Sober neighbors and acquaintances who may incline to attend, are cordially invited so to do."

—"I fear," said a country minister to his flock, "when I explained to you, in my last charity sermon, that philanthropy was the love of our species, you must have misunderstood me to say specie, which may account for the smallness of the collection. You will prove I hope, by your present contribution, that you are no longer laboring under the same mistake."

Great vices are the proper object of our detestation, smaller faults of our pity, but affectation appears to be the only true source of the ridiculous.

Whosoever is afraid of submitting any question, civil or religious, to the test of free discussion, is more in love with his own opinion than with truth.

We may safely lay it down as a rule of life, that things of doubtful expediency are always the best avoided. Let not your good be evil spoken of.

BELLEFONTE, PA.

THE YOUNG HUSBAND'S DILEMMA.

John had just married and brought home a bride,
A graceful and buxom and beautiful miss;
And when at the alter he stood by her side,
It seemed the last drop in his full cup of bliss.

Indeed, she was one of the fairest of creatures;
Her lips were like rubies, her teeth white as pearl;
The rose might have borrowed its hue from her features,
The sunlight was mocked by her bright golden curls.

With feasting and music the bright moments flew,
Till midnight approached, and the bride and her groom,
After bidding their friends and companions adieu,
Retired—together of course—to their room.

There her beautiful wreath, and her gossamer veil,
On the top of the bureau she carefully laid,
Then placing her dress, with its long silken trail,
O'er the back of the chair by the side of the bed.

And then one by one—but I can't tell the name
Of the various garments, embroidered and white—
Nor the feeling that over the young husband came,
As he sat and observed her disrobe for the night.

But many a brilliant illusion, I ween,
The possession of such a position dispels
To a man who has heard, but never yet seen,
That wonderful process, the peeling of belles.

So John felt, on seeing those beautiful curls,
Those glorious masses of bright golden hair,
And the teeth he admired—they were whiter than pearls—
All laid in a box that she placed on a chair.

Meantime to that box something more caught his eye,
To show how the artist Dame Nature can mock,
A full and judiciously chosen supply
Of cosmestics ad lib., rouge, enamel and chalk.

From her cheeks came her plumpers—which lest she should loose 'em,
She placed in her toilet box, too, with the rest;
Then swiftly detached the full palpitant bosom
Her lover, so fondly, so blindly had pressed.

Then placed on the chair the huge cushions she wore,
When the husband was still more than ever nonplussed,
To see what he had never witnessed before—
A fair woman's bustle abreast of her bust.

Then touching a spring that was hidden somewhere,
Her lower limbs parted precisely in halves,
And she laid on the alter—I mean on the chair,
Her last sacrifice—a pair of fat calves.

Her dissection completed, she plunged under cover,
Like a lath that might into a rivulet drop—
Then tenderly asked of her motionless lover,
"My darling, how long do you mean to sit up?"

"My dear, I'm quite undecided," he said,
"What course in the case would be proper and fair—
To follow the fraction that got into bed,
Or stay up with the part that is plied on the chair?"

A Wag Discourses of Queen Elizabeth.

Here is the latest outbreak of eccentric humor:

Queen Elizabeth is dead. It doesn't make any matter how we got the information. This is none of our fight—this quarrel between the associated press and its rival. We've received the news, and that's enough. She died two hundred and sixty-eight years ago the twenty fourth of last month. She survived until the vital spark had fled, and then she saw it was of no use resisting the inscrutable decree of fate, and so her unfettered soul took its flight into the mysterious void, and settled down in that bourne from which no traveler returns unless he has a mission to jerk chairs around and rap on tables for the benefit of mediums and other long-haired wild-eyed lunatics.

Queen Elizabeth was a virgin—a vergin' on seventy; and yet the fire gleamed as brightly as ever in her cream-colored eye, and the delicate sheen of her finely tinted maroon nose contrasted as forcibly as in her youth with the alabaster of her brow; and the plugs in her teeth were just as valuable as when gold was at 156.

She had no small vices. She did not smoke or chew or belong to the society for the promotion of cruelty to animals. And when she swore, she never decended to the vulgarity of Horace Greeley—Queen Elizabeth didn't. When she used profanity, she gave it with a finish, an elegance, a delicate airy grace, and infused into it a luxurious abandon, and rounded it off carefully at the corners, and dressed it up with well selected poetical adjectives, so that it sounded like a strain from some sweet singer, like some sweet singer straining himself, in fact. And she had red hair.

Her chignon was burglar proof. And often, in the dim twilight of evening, when the sun had sunk to rest, when the western sky was filled with tender radiance and lambent light, and the bulbul wooed the rose in the back yard, she would play a few notes upon her harpsichord, or write a Latin hymn or an essay upon the Harrison boiler. She was supposed to be the author of "Rock Me to Sleep, Mother," and "Beautiful Snow," and "Five o'Clock in the Morning." But nevertheless she was a very estimable woman, and with all her faults we love her still—better, indeed, than if she were still fooling around.

Queen Elizabeth was not proud. She always insisted upon cleaning her own teeth, even if she was a queen; and she always did it once a week, every Sunday morning, with her own tooth brush. What a lesson does it teach to those who are haughty and vain, and belong to the bon-ton! She never forgot that she was mere perishable dust, and that the sheep and the silkworm wore her fine clothes long before she got them. She read every Sunday school book that taught these facts; and she once trod on Sir Walter Raleigh's cloak to remind him of them, because he was so set up with his new fancy cassimeres. She said upon her death bed that Lydia Thompson need not learn this lesson, because it had no moral for those who browsed round in nature's simple garb.

Queen Elizabeth was not sorry to die. She foresaw that George F. Train was coming to England, and she said to her physicians that she would prefer the enduring peace of the cold and silent grave to three weeks of George and the Alabama controversy and the Schleswig-Holstein question all at the same time. Her last words were, "Kill Horace Greeley before he has a chance to write 'What I Know About Farming.'" There was not a dry eye in that second-story front room. Everybody was thinking how impossible it was to fulfill her dying request, and to escape so much misery.

But she has now gone; she has left us; we shall see her no more. Perhaps it is for the best. She was a vigorous woman, and if she had lived she might have come to America, and we might have given her offence, and she might have pranced around here and flogged us like the very nation. For she was a woman who followed closely in all the prevailing fashions. And so we are glad she is dead, and has four tons of marble planted on her to hold her down.

Rest in peace, old girl! Rest in pieces!

How the Wife Felt.

A man at whose house I was a guest, told me that he had been a hard drinker and a cruel husband; had beaten his poor wife until she had almost become used to it. "But," said he, "the very moment I signed the pledge, I thought of my wife—what would my wife say to this? Strange, that I should think of my wife the first thing, but I did; and as I was going home I said to myself, Now, if I go home, and tell her all of a sudden that I have signed the pledge, she'll faint away, or she'll up and do something; and I must break it to her by degrees.' Only think of it! Why, the night before, I'd have knocked her down, just as like as not, if she hadn't looked to please me, and now I am planing to break the good news to her, for fear it would upset her."

As near as I could gather from what he told me, he found his wife setting over the embers, waiting for him. As he came into the house, he said: "Nancy, I think that ——" "Well, Ned, what is it?" "Why, I think I shall—that Is—I mean to—to—Nancy, I mean—"

"What's the matter, Ned? Anything the matter?" "Yes, said he, "the matter's just this—I have signed the temperance pledge, and so help me God, I'll keep it."

She started to her feet, and she did faint away. I was just in time to catch her; and as she lay in my arms, her eyes shut and her face so pale, thinks I "She's dead, and I've done it now.' But she wasn't dead; she opened her eyes, and then she put her arm round my neck, and I didn't know she was so strong, as she pulled and pulled till she got me down where I had not been for thirty years—on my knees. Then she said, "Oh, God! help my poor Ned, and strengthen him to keep his pledge," and I hollered "Amen!" just as loud as I could holler. That was the first time we ever knelt together, but it was not the last.

IDLE GIRLS.—It is a painful spectacle in families, where the mother is the drudge, to see the daughters, elegantly dressed, reclining at their ease with their drawing, their music, their fancy work, and their reading, beguiling themselves of lapse of hours, days and weeks; never dreaming of their responsibilities; but, as a necessary consequence of neglect of duty, growing weary of their useless lives, laying hold of every newly invented stimulant to rouse their drooping energies, and blaming their fate, when they dare not blame their God, for having placed them where they are. These individuals will often tell you with an air of affected compassion (for who can believe it real) that poor dear mamma is working herself to death; yet no sooner do you propose that they should assist her, than they declare she is quite in her element; in short, that she would never be happy, if she only had half so much to do.

AN exchange says: We were considerably amused the other evening at three little girls playing among the brush in the yard. Two of them were making believe keep house, a few yards distant from each other—neighbors as it were. One of them says to the third little girl, "there now, Nellie, you go to Sarah's house, and stop a little while and talk, and then you come back and tell me what she says about her, and you go and tell her all I say—and then we'll get mad and won't speak to each other, just like our mothers do, you know; Oh! that will be such fun."

A newly arrived contraband from South Carolina, who asked for lodgings at the New Haven station house the other night, wore no less than six coats, and in the pocket of one a bottle containing a taste of "Jersey lightening" was found When it was produced, the mendicant, with an air of indignation, exclaimed — "Who put dat ar bottle in my pocket?—De man dat did dat ar am no fren of mine."

Sixteen Reasons.

A writer in one of our exchanges gives the following plain and forcible reasons for abstinence from the use of intoxicating liquors as a beverage. It is a view sanctioned both by religion and common sense:

1. Because ale, porter, gin, rum, brandy, etc, all contain a spirit which is calculated to derange the human system.

2 Because none of these drinks, as an habitual beverage, are ever useful, but always injurious to persons in health, and many professing Christians, both young and old, have been ruined by them.

3. Because drunkenness is a besetting sin, and leads to idleness, quarrelling, swearing, fighting, stealing, adultery, murder, and almost every other sin, and finally to eternal misery.

4. Because drinking produces poverty bankruptcy, destruction of property, loss of reason, disease and premature death.

5. Because a great deal of valuable time, labor and capital, are worse than wasted upon making, vending and using these drinks.

6. Because over seventy millions of money, being more than the whole revenue, are annually expended upon them in the United Kingdon, which ought to be laid out in food and manufactures.

7. Because nearly six millions of bushels of good grain are annually destroyed in this Christian land to make those liquors, while the markets are high and many of the poor are starving.

8. Because intemperance obstructs the progress of civilization, education the religion of Jesus, and every useful reform.

9. Because abstinence is sure and safe, but drinking moderately is dangerous, and has lead to all the drunkenness in the world.

10. Because I find I cannot effectually warn the drunkard, or set him an example, unless I am myself an entire abstainer.

11. Because I like to join those who are exerting themselves to promote the temporal and spiritual reformation and happiness of man.

12. Because it is important to set a safe example of perfect sobriety to our children, friends and associates.

13. Because it is our Christian duty to deny ourselves even of lawful things to promote the happiness of others.

14. Because, while millions in time and eternity have repented of drinking, not one has ever repented of abstaining.

15. Because, while no blessing is pronounced upon drinking, God's approval is frequently recorded in favor of abstinence. (See Jer. xxxv; Luke i, 15; Rom. xiv, 21; Prov. xx, 1.)

16. Because I should be ashamed to touch, taste, handle, or keep in my house, the article which is filling the land with dissipation, vice, poverty, misery, lamentation and woe.

IT may be an old joke, but a good one told of an old clergyman at the east, who has the most unbounded faith in Watt's hymns. A mischievous son of his thought it would be a good joke to test his father's faith. So he took an old song and pasted it in one of the pages of the book, over a hymn, so nicely that it could not easily be detected. At Church, on Sabbath morning, the minister happened to open on that very page, and commenced to read,

"Old Grimes is dead."

There was a sensation in the audience He looked at the choir, and they looked at him; but such was his faith in Watt's hymns that he undertook it again, commencing with the same line. There was another sensation in the audience. Looking at the choir, he said: "Brethren, it is here in regular order in Watt's hymn-book, and we'll sing it anyhow."

INTERPRETATION OF DREAMS.—To dream of a millstone around your neck is a sign of what you may expect if you should get an extravagant wife. When a young lady dreams of a coffin it betokens that she should instantly discontinue lacing her stays, and always go warmly and thickly shod in wet weather. To dream of fire is a sign that—if you are wise—you will see that the lights in your house are out before you go to bed. To dream that your nose is red at the tip is an intimation that you had better leave off brandy and drink water.

HENRY WARD BEECHER says: "There is nothing more offensive to me than to be greeted in that rough religious way, "Well, brother Beecher, how is your soul to-day?" None of your business. It is a kind of familiarity I don't relish. If my father were to come to me on the ferry-boat, and put his arms around my neck, I should look up with pleasure, but should a stranger do the same thing, I should resent the action as an insult.—And what I won't permit to be done to my body, I shall not tolerate on my soul."

—A farmer who wished to invest the accumulation of his industry in United States securities, went to a broker's office to obtain treasury notes. The clerk inquired, "What denomination will you have them, sir?" Having never heard that word used excepting to distinguish religious sects, the farmer, after a little deliberation, replied: "Well, you may give me part in Old School Presbyterian, to please the old lady, but give me the heft on't in Free Will Baptist."

Gleanings.

—"Money makes the man." Perhaps it does; but Punch thinks it particularly necessary that man should make money first.

—"What time is it Tom?" "Just time to pay that little account you owe me." "Oh, indeed! well, I didn't think it was half so late."

—A man who stole another man's hat, even when his name was written on it, was let off on the ground that he was collecting autographs.

—An Indiana widow so worked upon a young man's fears by threatening to marry him, that he turned over all his property to her and ran away.

—"I feel a severe pain," said a boble patient to Mr. Abernethy, "when I move my right arm so." "Then," replied Mr. A., "why does your lordship move it so?"

—There are two eventful periods in the life of a woman: one when she wonders whom she will have, the other when she wonders who will have her.—Jean Paul.

—At New York a short time ago, a person applied to the proper court to be divorced from his wife because she would persist in putting her cold feet against him when in bed.

—There is something to imitate even in the uncivilized Chinaman. They celebrate their holidays by paying their debts, forgiving their enemies, and "shaking hands all round.

—There are no means for the education of our race which can in any degree be compared to a domestic life in its purity. Domestic life in its essence is a bond of love, and through this a divine institution to beget love.

—A brutal old bachelor declares that pretty women kiss one another on coming into a room because it is a graceful custom; they do the same on going away because they are delighted to lose sight of one another.

—Cheerfulness is just as natural to the heart of a man in strong health as color to his cheek; and wherever there is habitual gloom there must be either bad air unwholesome food, improperly severe labor, or erring habits of life.

—In court the other day, a witness being asked how he knew that a man and woman were husband and wife replied, "because he had often heard the lady blow the gentleman up." The evidence was held to be conclusive.

—How sweet a thing is love of home. It is not acquired it is a feeling that has its origin elsewhere. It is born with us, brought from another world to carry us on with joy in this. It attaches to the humblest heart that ever throbbed.

—"Mother," said a sprightly girl of nineteen, "they say marriages are made in heaven; do you think they are?" "Why, my dear, it is a very general opinion." "Well, perhaps they are; but they seem a long time in coming down to some of us."

—"Never," says a henpecked man, "marry a woman worth more than thou art. When I married my wife I was worth fifty cents, and she was worth sixty-two cents; and when any difference has occurred between us she throws up the odd shilling."

—A Gentleman speaking of the happiness of the married state before his daughter, despairingly said: "She who marries does well, but she who does not marry does better." "Well, then," said the young lady, "I will do well; let those who choose do better."

—One of the most important female qualities is sweetness of temper. Heaven did not give to women insinuation and persuasion in order to be surly; it did not make them weak in order to be imperious; it did not give them a sweet voice to be employed in scolding.

—It is a good rule not absolutely to despise the opinion of blockheads. An ox, says a writer, is a stupid sort of an animal but an irritated ox is dangerous, especially if one can't get out of his way. The quadruped ox and the biped ass have a strong resemblance in this particular.

—"Don't put too much confidence in a lover's vows and sighs," said our Mrs. Partington to her niece; "let him tell you that you have lips like strawberries and cream, cheeks like a carnation, and an eye like an asterisk; but such things oftener come from a tender head than a tender heart."

—"I think," says Dr. John Brown, of Edinburg, "that every family should have a dog. It is like a perpetual baby; and then it betrays no secrets, never sulks, asks no troublesome questions, never gets into debt, never comes down late to breakfast, and it is always ready for a bit of fun.'

—A Young lady once observed, "When I go to the theatre, I am very careless of my dress, as the audience are too attentive to the play to observe my wardrobe; but when I go to church I am very particular in my outward appearance, as most people go there to see how their neighbors dress and deport themselves."

—A negro who was near his end was questioned by a clergymen as to the state of his mind. His replies were all very well until he came to the article of forgiveness: "Me forgib eberybody but Sam S——," "But can you not forgive him?" "Why yes, if me die me forgib him; but if me lib to get well me gib him anoder knock."

Speech of Dr. Ayer.

A new town named Ayer was recently chartered by the Legislature of Massachusetts, and on the occasion of its inauguration a brilliant celebration took place, which was attended by all classes from far and near. The preliminaries having been gone through with, Dr. J. C. Ayer, known the world over as the inventor of some of the best medicines ever made, was introduced to the audience and spoke as follows:

Ladies and Gentlemen:

On the western coasts of Scotland where it slopes into the Irish Sea, a river, rising on the mountains of the inner land, winds down among the hills and empties into the Frith of Clyde. From remote time it has been called Ayr from an old Scotch word "Ayry," meaning an eagle's nest—the river of the eagle's nest. Near its mouth and a contiguous harbor, long stood a hamlet which became a royal burg or town named from the river, and now about one-third as large as Lowell—the city of Ayr. For more than a thousand years it has been noted in the history of Scotland. During the wars of Robert Bruce it was one of his resorts, and was especially favored by him because he was there cured of leprosy. Oliver Cromwell made it one of the depots and headquarters of his army in his attack upon Scotland, and one of his old forts is now the Citadel of Ayr.

But above all its distinctions, Ayr was the birth-place of the poet Burns. And what a poet! What a voice has he given to all the endearments of home! How has he hallowed the cottage and all it covers—weans and wife, patches and poverty, beans, barley, ale, hardship and the poor man's toil. How he wraps with tenderness whatever he names, even his bleak leagues of pasture, the stubble field, ice, snow, sleet, and rain, brooks, birds, mice, thistles and heather. His Bonny Doon, John Anderson, my Jo John, Auld Lang Syne, and Highland Mary roll round the world in ever ringing symphony with what is purest and best in human nature. His songs woo and melt the hearts of youth and maidens, bring solace to the sorrowing and courage to the overburdened by their lot. His inspiration has set the affections to music in strains that are immortal.

No other one man ever made a language classic., but he has rendered that lowland Scotch a Doric dialect of fame. The name of his home and his beloved river Ayr was lifted on the wings of his pathes, and now the approaching traveler yearns to reach the spot his genius has sanctified.

Along the borders of the sea in a parallelogram and surrounding the town is a county of the same name—Ayrshire.

It would weary your patience to hear the history of my ancestors from one ancient John of Ayr, then John Ayr, down through the centuries to this Ayer now before you, through their vicissitudes of poverty and plenty—of fortune and misfortune; how they have intermarried with England, Ireland and Scotland, and later with the Americans, who are an excellent mixture of them all.

My friends,—you have chosen the name I inherited for your town with an extraordinary unanimity, and have thereby conferred an honor upon me, the proper acknowledgment of which I do not feel fully able to express. But I beg you to be assured that it is appreciated and that it will be gratefully remembered with a living interest in your prosperity while life remains to me, and, I trust, beyond that by my children after me.

If this name has become noted among the many that are worthier around you, that is greatly due to its publicity. May I be permitted to state whence that came? Until within a few centuries all the civilized nations of the globe were pent up on the Eastern continent. Two or three hundred years ago they leaked over into this; few and fearfully at first, then more and more but always in their settlements timidly hugging the Atlantic coast. Within the last two or three generations, they have burst out, as it were, and over-run these vast continents of the West. Now they are scattered here and possess these measureless stretches of mountains and valleys, hills, plains, forests and prairies with the boundless pampas and mountain ranges of South America. Former generations lived in villages and towns, thickly settled together where physicians were plenty and near at hand. Now, the people are widely scattered, in many sections of these many countries. For great numbers the timely treatment of physicians cannot be had; over large tracts of country good or competent physicians cannot be had at all. They can not visit patients enough many miles apart to live by their profession, nor can they carry medicines enough with them on horseback for their requirements. Hence has arisen in these modern times, a necessity for remedies ready at hand, with directions for their use—a present recourse for relief in the exigencies of sickness, when no other aid is near. It is a new necessity consequent upon the changed conditions of human life—a want I have spent my years in supplying, and I will tell you something of its extent. Our laboratory makes every day some 630,000 potions or doses of our preparations. These are all taken by somebody. Here is a number equal to the population of fifteen cities as large as Lowell, taking them every day (for sickness keeps no Sabbaths) nor for once only, but again and again year after year, through nearly one third of a century. We all join in the jokes about medicines as we do about the Doctor's mission to kill, the clergyman's insincerity and the lawyer's cheating. Yet each of these labors among the most serious realities of life. Sickness and its attendant suffering are no joke, neither is the treatment of them. This system of transportable relief, to be made available to the people, must keep its remedies fresh in their memories. This is done by advertising. Mark its extent. An advertisement, taking the run of the newspapers with which we contract (some 1900 annually) is struck upon each other flatwise, like the leaves of a book, the thickness through them is sixteen miles. In addition, it takes some seven millions of pamphlets and twelve millions of circulars to meet the public demand for this kind of information. Our annual issue of pamphlets alone, laid solid upon each other, make a pile eight and one quarter miles high. The circulars measured endwise reach 1894 miles, and these assertions are matters of mathematical certainty. Whatever the estimation in which these publications may be held here, they reach the firesides of millions upon millions of men who do treasure and regard them, and who in their trials do heed the counsel they bring.

Not only over these great Western continents but throughout that other land so little known to you, under our feet, the Australian continent, there are few villages as large as this which are not familiar with the name you have chosen, and employing the remedies that bear it.

Thus, gentlemen, have I striven in my humble sphere to render some service to my fellow men, and to deserve among the afflicted and unfortunate some regard for the name which your kind partiality hangs on these walls around me. We may look forward with confident hope to the renown you will gather under it, and the prosperity which there is reason to trust the future has in store for you. Situated as you are here on one of the main arteries between the west and east, between the great industries of the plough and the spindle you must aid in their exchanges and thrive with them. Soon these channels will be opened wide and poring through your precincts streams of men and merchandise that will need your furtherance and must contribute to your growth.

Located here in the centre of New England to what dearer spot can you turn that men inhabit? Beginning life rich with the honors of your mother town whose influence through her schools and her scholars is of itself an inheritance, with such examples as Lawrence, Boutwell, Hoar, what may you not hope for of usefulness in the councils of the state and nation?

Contrast our condition with that of the European nations, alternately torn and impoverished with wars, credit it as you may to the better education of the people, and you will realize the value of the example old mother Groton has set you, so worthy of your ambition to follow. Build schools for your children and find talent to teach them, then intelligence and integrity in prosperous and happy homes will be your sure reward.

Associated as you have made me with your weal and wo, I wish I might be allowed to contribute from my means such as they are, something towards this first foundation of the public good.

Gentlemen, I have detained you too long. Oppressed with the fear, that I do not deserve the distinction you bestow, I pray God to make me worthier, and to smile upon you with His perpetual blessings.

THE following announcement lately appeared in a Chester county, (Pa.,) paper "To be married, if divinely permitted, Joseph Brinton and Annie M. Howland, at the residence of the former, near Ereildoun, Chester county, Pa., a public meeting be appointed for the purpose on sixth day, the 16th inst., at two o'clock in the afternoon. Sober neighbors and acquaintances who may incline to attend, are cordially invited so to do."

—"I fear," said a country minister to his flock, "when I explained to you, in my last charity sermon, that philanthropy was the love of our species, you must have misunderstood me to say specie, which may account for the smallness of the collection. You will prove I hope, by your present contribution, that you are no longer laboring under the same mistake."

Great vices are the proper object of our detestation, smaller faults of our pity, but affectation appears to be the only true source of the ridiculous.

Whosoever is afraid of submitting any question, civil or religious, to the test of free discussion, is more in love with his own opinion than with truth.

We may safely lay it down as a rule of life, that things of doubtful expediency are always the best avoided. Let not your good be evil spoken of.

COMPLETION OF THE PACIFIC RAILROAD.

GREAT RUSH TO STERNBERG'S.

Sung to the tune of Yankee Doodle.

The Great Pacific Railroad's laid,
From ocean unto ocean,
And now complete connections made,
An enterprising notion.

The mighty work at last is done,
So speedy and brisk, oh!
And now in ten days we can run
From here to San Francisco.

No more we take the ancient route,
The stage, a horrid slow thing;
It banged the passengers about
And wore out all their clothing.

CHORUS, for the end of each verse:

The Great Pacific Railroad laid,
From ocean unto ocean,
And we buy clothes from A. STERNBERG,
A most delightful notion.

Through passengers by the Pacific Railroad will call at the store of A. Sternberg, before starting, and provide themselves with a complete outfit of Spring and Summer clothing, the very best assortment of which will always be found at A. Sternberg's Store.

People who travel by other routes, and also peoplewho, instead of travelling by any route at all, prefer to stay at home, can find the most superior and seasonable garments, for every occasion, of every variety, and at the lowest price.

Do not fail to call and examine our stock before purchasing elsewhere: if you do not, we are sure you will be sorry that you did not. Our goods are put down to the lowest figure. We sell whole suits, according to quality.

DR. PIERCE'S ALT. EXT. OR GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY

The originator of this wonderful medicine claims to have discovered and combined in harmony more of Nature's most sovereign medical properties than was ever before combined in one medicine. The evidence of this facts found in the great variety of most obstinate diseases which it has been found to conquer. In the cure of Bronchitis, Severe Coughs, and the early stages of Consumption, it has astonished the medical faculty, and hundreds of the best physicians pronounce it the greatest medical discovery of the age. While it cures the severest Coughs, it strengthens the system and purifies the blood. By its great and thorough blood purifying properties, it cures all Humors from the worst Scrofula to a common Blotch Pimple or Eruption. Mercurial Disease, Mineral Poisons, Syphilitic and Venereal Diseases, and their effects are eradicated and vigorous health and a sound constitution established. Erysipelas, Salt Rheum, Scald-head, Fever Sores, Scaly or Rough Skin, in short, all the numerous diseases caused by bad blood, are conquered by this powerful purifying and invigorating medicine. For "Liver Complaint," Bilious Disorders and Habitual Constipation, it has produced hundreds of perfect and permanent cures where other medicines had failed.

The proprietor offers $1,000 reward for a medicine that will equal it in the cure of all the diseases for which it is recommended. Beware of counterfeits and worthless imitations. See that my private Government Stamp, which is a positive guarantee of genuineness, is upon the outside wrapper. This medicine is Sold by Druggists at $1,50 per bottle. Prepared by R. V. PIERCE, M.D., Sole Proprietor, at his Chemical Laboratory 133 Seneca street, Buffalo, N. Y.

ROSADALIS.

THE GREAT AMERICAN health RESTORER, purifies the blood and cures Scrofula, Syphilis, Skin diseases, Rheumatism, and all Chronic Affections of the blood, Liver and Kidneys. Recommended by the Medical Faculty and many thousands of our best citizens. Read the testimony of Physicians and patients who have used Rosadalis: send for our Rosadalis Guide to Health Book, or Almanac for this year, which we publish for gratuitous distribution; it will give you much valuable information.

Dr. R. W. Carr, of Baltimore, says

I take pleasure in recommending your Rosadalis as a very powerful alterative. I have seen it used in two cases with happy results—one in a case of secondary syphilis, in which the patient pronounced himself cured after having taken five bottles of your medicine. The other is a case of scrofula of long standing, which is rapidly improving under its use, and the indications are that the patient will soon recover. I have carefully examined the formula by which your Rosadalis is made, and find it an excellent compound of alterative ingredients.

Dr. Sparks, of Nicholasville, Ky., says he has used Rosadalis in cases of Scrofula and Secondary Syphilis with satisfactory results—as a cleaner of the Blood I know no better remedy.

Samuel G. McFadden, Murfreesborough, Tenn., says:

I have used seven bottles of Rosadalis, and am entirely cured of Rheumatism; send me four bottles, as I wish it for my brother, who has scrofulous sore eyes.

Benjamin Bechtol, of Lima, Ohio, writes, I have suffered for twenty years with an inveterate eruption over my whole body; a short time since I purchased a bottle of Rosadalis and it effected a perfect cure.

Rosadalis is sold by F. P. GREEN, and Druggists generally.

WARNER'S.

PILE REMEDY

WARNER'S PILE REMEDY has never failed (not even in one case) to cure the very worst cases of Blind Itching or Bleeding Piles. Those who are afflicted should immediately call on their druggist and get Warner's Pile Remedy. It expressly for the Piles, and is not recommended to cure any other disease. It has cured many cases of over thirty years standing. Price One Dollar. For sale by druggists everywhere.

DYSPEPSIA.

WARNER'S DYSPEPSIA TONIC is prepared expressly for Dyspeptics and those suffering with habitual Costiveness. It is slightly stimulating tonic and a splendid apetizer; it strengthens the stomach and restores the digestive organs to their healthy state. Weak, nervous and dyspeptic persons should use Warner's Dyspepsia Tonic. For sale by Druggists. Price $1,00.

COUGH NO MORE.

WARNER'S COUGH BALSAM is healing, softening and expectorating. The extraordinary power it possesses in immediately relieving, and eventually curing, the most obstinate causes of Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Influenza, Catarrh, Hoarseness, Asthma and Consumption is almost incredible. So prompt is the relief and certain its effects in all the above cases, our physicians are daily prescribing it, and one and all say that it is the most healing and expectorating medicine known. One dose always affords relief, and in most cases one bottle effects a cure. Sold by druggists, in large bottles. Price One Dollar. It is your own fault if you still cough and suffer. The Balsam will cure.

WINE OF LIFE.

The great Blood Purifier and Delicious Drink, Warner's Vinum Vitæ, or Wine of Life, is free from poisonous drugs or impurities, being prepared for those who require a stimulant. It is a splendid appetizer and tonic, and the finest thing in the world for purifying the blood. It is the most pleasant and delicious article ever offered to the public, far superior to brandy, whiskey, wine, bitters, or any other article. It is more healthy, and cheaper. Both male and female, young or old, can take the Wine of Life. It is, in fact, a life preserver. Those who wish to enjoy good health, and a free flow of healthy spirits, will do well to take the Wine of Life. It is different from any thing ever before in use. It is sold by druggists; also at all respectable saloons. Price, One Dollar, in quart bottles.

EMMENAGOGUE.

Warner's Emmenagogue is the only article known to cure the Whites, it will cure in every case. Where is the family in which this important medicine is not wanted? Mothers, this is the greatest blessing ever offered you, and you should immediately procure it. It is also a sure cure for Female Irregularities, and may be depended upon in every case where the monthly flow has been obstructed through cold or disease. Sold by druggists. Price One Dollar. Or sent by mail on receipt of One Dollar and a Quarter.

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN HAIR RENEWER

RESTORES GRAY HAIR TO ITS ORIGINAL COLOR, PROMOTES ITS GROWTH! AND IS A SPLENDID DRESSING. TRY ONE BOTTLE AND THICKEN UP THE THIN LOCKS!

Is the only perfected and scientifically prepared preparation of its kind ever offered to the public, and has no competitor in merit. By its use GRAY HAIR is soon restored to its original youthful color and brilliancy, which is so much admired by all. Persons whose hair is thin or falling out will, by the use of our Renewer, soon see its good effects, as, by its tonic and stimulating properties the hair glands will be incited and the hair grow thick and strong again. In cases of Baldness it will create a new growth unless the follicles are destroyed. It is cooling, and allays all itching and irritation of the scalp. It does not stain the skin as do dyes, but makes the scalp white and clean. As a DRESSING it is the best and most economical preparation in the world, as its effects last so much longer. Send for our Treatise on the hair, free to all, by mail.

BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN.

R. B. BARGER,.....PROPRIETOR

W. W. BROWN,.....EDITOR

Terms: $2.00 Per Annum in Advance.

BELLEFONTE, PA.

Wednesday Morning, April 5, 1871.

☞A complete file of the BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN may always be found at the offices of GEO. P. ROWELL & CO., Advertising Agents, 40 and 41 Park Row, New York, who are authorized to represent us in that city.

JOB WORK.—We are prepared to do all kinds of Job Work at the REPUBLICAN office. We are prepared to print the smallest cards, as well as the largest posters. We do our work well, and at the most reasonable rates. Our readers will remember that we obtained a Diploma from the County Fair last fall, for the best "Plain and Ornamental Printing." There is no establishment in the County can say as much. Bring, or send in your work. Give us a trial, and be convinced.

PAY UP.

Many of our readers have paid in advance. We have nothing but thanks for them, and they need not read this article any farther. It is not intended for them. But we have a large number of subscribers who have not paid last years subscription. Now friends this is not the way to support a paper. We have to pay cash for everything we purchase. Paper, ink, labor, all are cash. We know that we have not a subscriber on our books, who is not abundantly able to pay for the REPUBLICAN.

It is not because you are not able, but because you forget or neglect it. If you continue this course much longer it will cost you something extra. Remember our rates are $2,00 in advance; $2,50 if not paid within six months, and $3,00 if not paid till the end of the year.

THE Commissioner of Internal Revenue states that the supervisors for North and South Carolina, Georgia, and Mississippi report that in many sections of their districts a reign of terror exists, and it is totally impossible to enforce the revenue laws. In some instances internal revenue officers have been compelled to flee for their lives.

LLOYD BRITTON, convicted of murdering Jacob Bay in December last, was hung at Williamsport on the 22d inst. He asserted his innocence of the murder to the last. On the scaffold, when told if he had anything to say to step forward and say it, he came forward and said: "Gentlemen I am about to be hung. I did not kill Jake Bay. I had nothing to kill Jake Bay for. That is all I have to say."

THE N. Y. Tribune closes its reflections on the New Hampshire election with this significant language.

New Hampshire has not become Democratic. This vote means mainly, if not wholly Republican apathy, born of over-confidence and the continuous triumphs of sixteen years, and Republican disaffection, engendered by local quarrels, liquor, and the unwise and untimely Summer trouble. It is not by the continuance of such causes that parties are saved; and if the lesson is to be learned, in time for 1872, it has not been given us a month too soon. Let us take it for warning and incitement; and close up the ranks.

The Cincinnati Enquirer continues to remind the "Baron of Gold" and the "Monetary Barons" of New York, who it says have "obtained a lodgement in the Democratic party, if they persist and succeed in their efforts to control the organization of the Democratic party, that a Republican triumph in 1872 is an assured fact. This is rather a cheerful view of the case; but it reminds us of the fact that if these "Monetary Barons" should be defeated in their candidate in 1872, and the Enquirers candidate be successful, the first movement would be to make these "Barons of Gold" come down handsomely to carry on the campaign. Talk about the "Barons of Gold" and "Monetary Barons" is well enough to please the groundlings, but when it comes to furnish the sinews of war, they are the boys who have to "bleed for their party," if not for their country.—Mercer Dispatch.

THE Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial, speaking of Chief Justice Chase, says: I saw the Chief Justice the other day, and I am glad to write that he continues steadily to improve in health. He now walks miles every day, eats with a relish, and sleeps like a child. He is gaining flesh and strength, and his face is again assuming its old form of characteristics and expression. The convalescence of the Chief Justice has received all the old speculations concerning the Presidency, and should his health continue to improve, I would not be astonished to see him nominated by the Democracy and elected President of the United States. When he was struck down by this sickness, the leaders of the party, considering him out of the way, very generally admitted that he was really their only available candidate, and a man who ought to hold the position. They did not calculate upon his restoration to health, and now that he is well, these confessions are somewhat awkward, and go far to strengthen him for the nomination and election.

REBUBLICAN UNITY.

We think it is safe to say, that there never has been a party either in church or State which did not contain its so-called conservatives or its week-kneed timid followers. The late little "unpleasantness" between the President and Senator Sumner has demonstrated the fact, that the great Republican party is not without its portion of the class of followers above alluded to. We are thankful however that there is not many of them—that they are "few and far between." Here and there you will find a newspaper or perhaps a correspondent shedding bitter tears over what they are pleased to term the disintegration of the Republican party. In nearly every instance we are inclined to the belief, that the "wish is father to the thought." How often are we asked the question, "Whither are we drifting?" How easy it is to answer this question. Let the true, loyal and noble hearted members of our great party remain true to their honest convictions and to the principles so dear to every Republican heart and our organization will rise higher and higher still in the estimation of the honest people until the government which it did so much to save, is placed upon so firm a foundation that the Democrats who sought to destroy its life, will be powerless to harm it more. There is no cause for alarm. The people of the United States, will never trust an organization so steeped in treason, so deeply rooted in iniquity and crime as is the Democratic party.

The Richmond (Va.) State Journal in speaking upon this subject expresses our sentiments in the most eloquent language—"In thoughts that breathe and words that burn." It says: "The Republican party is too vast and weighty to be swayed by trifling causes. If it were a mere mob, scrambling for place and held together by the 'cohesive power of public plunder"—a slight shock would disintegrate and destroy it. But it is not merely an organization for the purpose of posssessing the places of profit and power, composed of leaders who want office, and a blind mass of ignorance and prejudice, who are their dupes and tools. The Republican party is held together by the magnetism of great principles and profound convictions. It shares the common sympathies and aspirations of true men the world over. Wherever liberty rises to resist oppression; wherever the people struggle against proscriptive might and aspire to a nobler life; wherever the right triumphs and the wrong goes down, its mighty voice cheers on the strife for God and freedom, and the progress of humanity. It shares the throbbing life of the world's growth, and shares, therefore, its vitality and permanence.

The disappointments and dissensions of its leaders, transient and local defeats, no more affect the unity or the grand advance of its columns, than the flash of lightning disturbs the magnetic currents which vitalize the globe; than the splash of a stone in the ocean affects the majestic move of the tides; than the passing meteor in the sky sways the firm earth from its orbit.

We are bound together by the memories of the past also. For fifteen years the Republican party has written the grandest page in the history of the world. It has led the van of the army of emancipation from the shackles of the past. It has carried the nation safely through the greatest civil war on record. With treason and imbecility in its own ranks, embarrassed with constitutional restraints, sham neutralities and diplomatic tricks, against a foe united, able, and devoted to a desperate cause, it has triumphed over every obstacle. From the dust and smoke of the conflict it emerged triumphant, bearing aloft the sacred ark of the covenant of man's freedom, and the enduring pledges of National unity.

We cannot wholly forget the glorious past and descend from the proud heights of its achievement to quarrel over the crumbs that fall from the table of power. From the past, we are called to the completion of our work in well-ordered liberty, universal intelligence, prosperity and National growth. If we turn aside to quarrel for place and power, the memory of heroes and martyrs will recall us from narrow selfishness to the higher claims of the nation and of mankind.

'Know we not our dead are looking
Downward, with a sad surprise,
All our words of strife rebuking,
With their mild and blessed eyes.
From the eternal shallow rounding,
All our sun and twilight here—
Voices of our lost ones sounding,
Bid us be of heart and cheer!
Through the silence, down the spaces,
Falling on the inward ear,
Let us then, uniting bury
All our idle feuds in dust;
And to future conflicts carry
Mutual faith and common trust;
Always he who most forgiveth
In his brother is most just!'

Let none fear disruption because we allow free discussion. It is the very life of the party of progress. Agitation brings up the pearls and gold of truth. The stagnant pool generates only pestilential miasmas and ignis fatui, which lure to death. Let the storm-winds stir the leaden waters of conservatism into foam. Let the billows roll and great waves lash the land, strewing the shore with the wrecks of weak policies and rotten systems. Our goodly Republican ship, 'steel-ribbed, with heart of oak,' freighted with the precious hopes of freemen, shall outride the storm, and come gradly into port."

For the REPUBLICAN.

CHRISTIAN DUTY.

It is the duty of every christian to watch and pray that they may not enter into temptation, and that they may be delivered from evil. This duty is incumbent upon every christian individual at all times. No one is safe a moment from the devices of Satan, unless they are guided and guarded by the protecting hand of Providence. The power of man is weak and vain, and not to be relied upon. We also have relative duties to perform, such as will show by our walk and conversation, that we are the true followers of Him, who was the best pattern while upon earth; thus by our influence, properly exerted upon others, we may induce them, to forsake their evil ways, seek repentence and to conform their lives, to the only pattern our Savior.

This can be done in various ways and at all times; in our daily avocations equally as well as in the Sabbath School the prayer meeting or the Sanctuary. Much evil arises from the conduct of too many of our professing religionists.—They are erratic and boisterous, in every kind of devotional exercise, and are fault finding, because others do not admire them for "their much speaking". The world notices that they say and they do not, that all their works they do to be seen of men, and they love the uppermost rooms at feasts and the chief seats in the Synagogues, and for a pretense make long prayers." These evils we are warned against, and if we see this spirit, manifesting itself in others, we should entreat them to humiliate themselves, to go to their Savior, and ask for giveness, and endeavor after new obedience. This is our christian duty.

Sincerity is a great power in religion. Show me the professing christian, whose constant aim is the worship of God, (and it matters not how guilty or humbly his devotions arise) the beauties of holiness and christian piety, will shine forth and illuminate the heart of every one that would seek their souls salvation.

Sincerity in religion will do more to convert souls, than any other human effort. On the other hand insincerity is as great a power for evil. How often do we find those laboring in religion, whose hearts are not there, who are simply seeking worldly honors and preferments, who use the means of religion as a school for oratory, to expand their fine intellectual powers and improve the capacity of their lungs. It needs no labored argument, to convince the intelligent, the christian mind, that a governing motive of this kind, is wrong, although persons indulging this kind of religion, may think they have an excellent human garb to hide behind; yet they must remember, there is an eye that sleepeth nor slumbereth not, and from whose vision not one can escape.

Let us all watch and pray.

H

SPEER'S PORT GRAPE WINE.—The mild character and superior tonic properties of the Port Grape Wine over those formerly used by physicians have deservedly created for it a place in our sick rooms and hospitals. Government now uses it. The Sanitary and Christian commissioners use it; and Mr. Speer in producing so excellent a native wine is a benefactor in his line. His business is now very extensive, and what with drawing off and bottling, packing and box making, quite a force is engaged.

To the remotest part of the country his cases are sent, and by means of his medicinal and Sacramental Port Grape Wine, the name of Alfred Speer has become everywhere a familiar household word—Paterson Guardian.

Our druggists have some of this wine.

JURUBEBA.

WHAT IS IT?

It is a sure and perfect remedy for all diseases of the Liver And Spleen, Enlargement Or Obstruction Of Intestines, Urinary, Uterine, Or Abdominal Organs, Poverty Or A Want Of Blood, Intermittent Or Remittent Fevers, Inflammation Of The Liver, Dropsy, Sluggish Circulation Of The Blood, Abscesses, Tumors, Jaundice, Scrofula, Dyspepsia, Ague & Fever Or Their Concomitants

DR. WELLS having become aware of the extraordinary medicinal properties of the South American Plant, called sent a special commission to that country to procure it in its native purity, and having found its wonderful curative properties to even exceed the anticipations formed by its great reputation, has concluded to offer it to the public, and is happy to state that he has perfected arrangements for a regular monthly supply of this wonderful Plant. He has spent much time experimenting and investigating as to the most efficient preparation from it, for popular use, and has for some time used in his own practice with most happy results the effectual medicines now presented to the public as

and he confidently recommends it to every family as a household remedy which should be freely taken as a BLOOD PURIFIER in all derangements of the system and to animate and fortify all weak and Lymphatic temperaments.

Medical.

SOMETHING NEW

UNDER THE SUN.

A New Era In Medicine.

☞ Let the Suffering and Diseased read the following.

☞ Let all who have been given up by Doctors, and spoken of as incurable, read the following.

☞ Let all who can believe facts, and can have faith in evidence, read the following.

Know all men by these presents. That, on this, the Twentieth day of June, in the year of our Lord, One Thousand Eight Hundred and Sixty-six, personally came Joseph Haydrick to me known as such, and being duly sworn deposed as follows: "That he is the sole general agent for the United States and dependencies thereof for preparations or medicines known as Dr. Maggiel's Pills and Salve, and that the following certificates are verbatim copies to the best of his knowledge and belief.

JAMES SMEITRE, Notary Public,
[L.S.] 14 Wall St. New York.

June 1st, 1866.

DR. MAGGIEL:—I take my pen to write you of my great relief and that the awful pain in my side has left me at last—thanks to your medicine. Oh, Doctor, how thankful I am that I can get some sleep. I can never write it enough. I thank you again and again, and am sure that you are really the friend of all sufferers. I could not help writing to you, and hope you will not take it amiss. JAMES MYERS,
116 Avenue, D.

This is to certify that I was discharged from the army with Chronic Diarrhœa, and have been cured by Dr. Maggiel's Pills.

WILSON HARVEY,
NEW YORK, April 7, 1866. 27 Pitt Street.

The following is an interesting case of a man employed in an Iron Foundry, who, in pouring melted iron into a flask that was damp and wet, caused an explosion. The melted iron was thrown around and on him in a perfect shower, and he was burnt dreadfully. The following certificate was given to me, by him, about eight weeks after the accident:

NEW YORK, Jan. 11, 1869.

My name is Jacob Hardy; I am an Iron Founder. I was badly burnt by hot iron in November last; my burns healed, but I had a running sore on my leg that would not heal: I tried Maggiel's Salve and it cured me in a few weeks. This is all true and anybody can see me at Jackson's Iron Works, 2d Avenue.

J. HARDY, 119 Greeck St.

EXTRACTS FROM VARIOUS LETTERS.

"I had no appetite; Maggiel's Pills gave me a hearty one."

"Your Pills are marvellous."

"I send for another box, and keep them in the house."

"Dr. Maggiel has cured my headache that was chronic."

"I gave half of one of your Pills to my babe for cholera morbus. The dear little thing got well in a day."

"My nausea of a morning is now cured."

"Your box of Maggiel's Salve cured me of noises in the head. I rubbed some of your Salve behind my ears, and the noise has left."

"Send me two boxes, I want one for a poor family."

"I enclose a dollar, your price is 25 cents, but the medicine to me is worth a dollar."

"Send me five boxes of your Pills."

"Let me have three boxes of your Pills by return mail."

I Have over 200 such Testimonials as these, but want of space compels me to conclude.

FOR CUTANEOUS DISORDERS,

And all eruptions of the skin, the SALVE is most invaluable. It does not heal externally alone, but penetrates with the most searching effects to the very root of the evil.

DR. MAGGIEL'S PILLS

Invariably cure the following Diseases: Asthma, Bowel Complaints, Coughs, Colds, Chest Diseases, Costiveness, Dyspepsia, Diarrhea, Dropsy, Debility, Fever and Ague, Female Complaints, Headache, Indigestion, Influenza, Inflammation, Inward Weakness, Liver Complaints, Lowness of Spirits, Ring Worm, Rheumatism, Scalds, Skin Diseases, Salt Rheum, etc.

Call for these inestimable Medicines at your druggist's, and if you cannot procure them, send to this office.

All orders for the United States must be addressed to

COMPOUND FLUID Extract Catawba GRAPE PILLS.

Component Parts—Fluid Extract Rhubard and Fluid Extract Catawba Grape Juice.

For Liver Complaints, Jaundice, Bilious Affections, Sick Or Nervous Headache, Costiveness Etc. Purely Vegetable, Containing No Mercury, Minerals Or Deleterious Drugs.

H

These Pills are the most delightfully pleasant purgative, superseding castor oil, salts, magnesia etc. There is nothing more acceptable to the stomach. They give tone, and cause neither nausea nor griping pains. They are composed of the finest ingredients. After a few days' use of them, such an invigoration of the entire system takes place as to appear miraculous to the weak and enervated, whether arising from imprudence or disease. H. T. Helmbold's Compound Fluid Extract Catawba Grape Pills are not sugar-coated, from the fact that sugar-coated Pills do not dissolve, but pass through the stomach without dissolving, consequently do not produce the desired effect. THE CATAWBA GRAPE PILLS, being pleasant in taste and odor, do not necessitate their being sugar-coated. PRICE FIFTY CENTS PER BOX.

E

Helmbold's extract buchu is Diuretic and Blood-Purifying, and Cures all Diseases arising from habits of Dissipation, and Excesses and Imprudences in life Impurities of the Blood, Etc., Superseding Copaiba in Affections for which it is used, and Syphilitic Affections—In these Diseases used in Connection with Helmbold's rose wash.

LADIES.

In many affections peculiar to ladies, the extract buchu is Unequalled by any other Remedy as in Chlorosis or Retention, Irregularity, Painfulness or Suppression of Customary Evacuations, Ulcerated or schirrus state of the Uterus, Leucorrhœa or Whites, Sterility, and for all Complaints incident to the Sex, whether arising from Indiscretion or Habits of Dissipation. It is prescribed extensively by the most Eminent Physicians and Midwives for Enfeebled and Delicate Constitutions, of Both Sexes and all Ages (attended with any of the above Diseases or Symptoms.)

O

H. T. HELMBOLD'S

in all their stages, at little expense, little or no change in diet, no inconvenience, and no exposure. It causes a frequent desire, and gives strength to Urinate, thereby removing Obstructions, Preventing and Curing Strictures of the Urethra, Allaying Pain and Inflamation, so frequent in this class of diseases, and expelling all Poisonous matter.

Thousands who have been the victims of incompetent persons, and who have paid heavy fees to be cured in a short time, have found they have been deceived, and that the "Poison" has, by the use of "powerful astringents," been dried up in the system, to break out in a more aggravated form, and perhaps after Marriage.

Use HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU for all Affections and Diseases of the Urinary Organs, whether existing in Male or Female, from whatever cause originating, and no matter of how long standing. PRICE ONE DOLLAR AND FIFTY CENTS PER BOTTLE.

L

HENRY T. HELMBOLB'S IMPROVED ROSE WASH

cannot be surpassed as a Face Wash, and will be found the only specific remedy in every species of Cutaneous Affection. It speedily eradicates Pimples Spots, Scorbutic Dryness, Indurations of the Cutaneous Membrane, etc., dispels redness and incipient inflammation, hives, rash, moth patches, dryness of scalp or skin, frost bites, and all purposes for which salves or ointments are used; restore the skin to a state of purity and softness, and insures continued healthy action to the tissue of its vessels, on which depends the agreeable clearness and vivacity of complexion so much sought and admired. But however valuable as a remedy for existing defects of the skin, H. T. Helmbold's Rose Wash has long sustained its principle claim to undounded patronage, by possessing qualities which render it a Toilet Appendage of the most Superlative and Congenial character, combining in an elegant formula those prominent requisites, safety and efficacy—the invariable accompaniments of its use—as a Preservative and Refresher of the Complexion. It is an excellent Lotion for diseases of a Syphilitic Nature, and as an injection for diseases of the Urinary Organs, arising from habits of dissipation, used in connection with the EXTRACTS BUCHU, SARSAPARILLA, AND CATAWBA GRAPE PILLS, in such diseases as recommended, cannot be surpassed. PRICE, ONE DOLLAR PER BOTTLE.

EVERY GROCER SELLS IT.

EVERY FAMILY USES IT.

NONE CAN DO WITHOUT IT.

Be sure that the wrapper has on it the cut of Mrs. Fogy and Mrs. Enterprise, and that each bar, is stamped with the name of the inventor and originator, J. B. DOBBINS, as none other is genuine.

Like everything of great value, it is extensively counterfeited, and the market filled with false and worthless Electric Soaps, none worth house-room, and dear even if given away.

The finest American Toilet Soap, fully equal to the French, made by a French soapmaker in the same manner as the French soaps are made, and sold at one-fourth their price, is

DOBBINS'

TRIPLE SCENTED TOILET SOAP.

No Toilet Table is complete without it.

The Best Emollient in the Market.

It is given the preference at every watering place in the country, and is for sale everywhere.

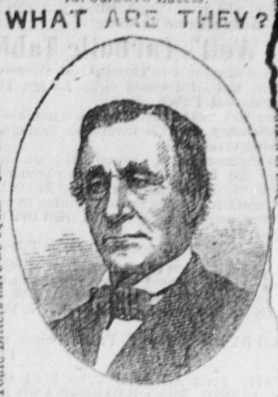
The Great Medical Discovery!

Dr. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA

VINEGAR BITTERS,

Hundreds of Thousands
Bear testimony to their Wonderful Curative Effects.

WHAT ARE THEY?



THEY ARE NOT A VILE

FANCY DRINK,

Made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits and Refuse Liquors doctored, spiced and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the Native Roots and Herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER and LIFE GIVING PRINCIPLE a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the System, carrying off all poisonous matter and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to direction and remain long unwell.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism and Gout, Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.

DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION.

Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the regions of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia.

They invigorate the Stomach and stimulate the torpid liver and bowels, which render them of unequalled efficacy in cleansing the blood of all impurities, and imparting new life and vigor to the whole system.

FOR SKIN DISEASES, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-Worms, Scald-Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters. One bottle in such cases will convince the most incredulous of their curative effects.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure and the health of the system will follow.

PIN, TAPE and other WORMS, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. For full directions, read carefully the circular around each bottle.

Young America at the Wheel.

A well known clergyman was crossing Lake Erie some years ago upon one of the lake steamers, and seeing a small lad at the wheel steering the vessel, he accosted him as follows:

"My son, you appear to be a small boy to steer so large a boat."

"Yes sir," was the reply; "but you see I can do it, though."

"Do you think you understand your business, my son?"

"Yes sir, I think I do."

"Can you box the compass?"

"Yes sir."

"Let me hear you box it."

The boy did as he was requested, when the minister said:

"Well, really, you can do it! Can you box it backwards?"

"Yes sir."

"Let me hear you."

"The boy again did as requested, when the minister remarked:

"I declare my son you do seem to understand your business."

The boy then took his turn at question-asking, beginning:

"Pray, sir, what might be your business?"

"I am a minister of the Gospel."

"Do you understand your business?"

"I think I do my son."

"Can you say the Lord's Prayer?"

"Yes."

"Say it."

The clergyman did so, repeating the words in a very fervent manner, as though he was trying to make an impression on the lad.

"Well, really," said the boy, upon its conclusion, "you do know it, don't you? Now say it backwards."

"O! I can't do such a thing as that! Of course—"

"You can't do it, eh?" returned the boy. "Well, then, you see, I understand my business a great deal better than you do yours."

The clergyman acknowledged himself beaten, and retired.

The Coming Man.

While our fine girls are bemoaning the lack of young men, and the scarcity of beaux who are marriageable and who mean marriage, there is a class of young men whom they do not recognize at all, yet who will furnish to the next generation its men of enterprise, of power, of position and of wealth. It is not the sons of the rich, who will, as a rule, remain rich. The sons of the poor will get rich; and there are at present, drudging in offices, counting rooms, and manufacturing establishments of all kinds, the men who, in twenty-five years, will control the nation socially, politically, and financially. Every man of them means to be married; they will, as a rule, make excellent husbands; they are all at work trying to win success. They are men who would be easily improved by recognition, and by bringing them into good, intelligent society; yet they are as little noticed as if they were only dogs. Excellent young men from the country go into the city and live for years without any society, and are regarded by the fashionable young women with indifference or contempt; but these young men have a hold upon the future: and when their success is known, in whatever field of enterprise it may be, the fashionable world will be glad to receive them as belonging to their own number. We regret to say, that as a rule, the young men for whom a position has been won by virtuous and enterprising fathers, amount to but little in the world: and rejoice to say that companions chosen from those who have their fortunes to make and their positions to win, are those to whom a well bred woman can generally, with safety, intrust her happiness and herself.—Holland.

THE following estimate of woman's love appears in an English contemporary: "A French woman will love her husband if he is either witty or chivalrous; a German woman if he is constant and faithful; a Dutch woman if he does not disturb her ease and comfort too much; a Spanish woman if he wreaks vengeance on those who incur his displeasure: an Italian woman if he is dreamy and poetical; a Danish woman if he thinks that her native country is the happiest and brightest on earth; a Russian woman if he despises all westerners as miserable barbarians: and English woman if he succeeds in ingratating himself with the Court and arristocracy; an American woman if he has plenty of money.

AN eccentric wealthy gentleman stuck up a board in a field on his estate, upon which was painted the following:—"I will give this field to any man who is contented." He soon had an applicant. "Well, sir, are you a contented man?" "Yes, sir, very." "Then what do you want with my field?". The applicant did not stop to reply.

MONEY CANNOT BUY IT! FOR SIGHT IS PRICELESS!!

THE DIAMOND GLASSES, MANUFACTURED BY J. E. SPENCER & CO., N. Y., which are now offered to the public, are pronounced by all the celebrated Opticians of the World to be the MOST PERFECT Natural, Artificial help to the human eye ever known,

They are ground under their own supervision, from minute Crystal Pebbles, melted together, and derive their name "Diamond," on account of their hardness and brilliancy. THE SCIENTIFIC PRINCIPLE on which they are constructed brings the core or centre of the lens directly in front of the eye, producing a clear and distinct vision, as in the natural, healthy sight, and preventing all unpleasant sensations, such as glimmering and wavering of sight, dizziness, &c., peculiar to all others in use. They are Mounted in the Finest Manner. In frames of the best quality, of all materials used for that purpose, THEIR FINISH AND DURABILITY cannot be surpassed.

CAUTION.—None genuine unless bearing their trade mark stamped on every frame.

BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN.

BELLEFONTE, PA.

Wednesday Morning, April 5, 1871.

HOME NEWS.

THANKS.—We tender our thanks to those enterprising butchers, Messrs Kurtz & Straub, for a fine lot of magnificent sausage.

NEW HOUSE.—John Given, an honest, hard-working blacksmith, is, we understand, building himself a new house.—Talk of hard times.

BIG CALF.—We learn that John Uzzle, Esq., of Snowshoe twp., is prepared to bet that his big calf will, when a year old, weigh 800 pounds.

FOR RENT.—Graham & Son have a most excellent room to rent immediately over their Boot & Shoe Store. It is well calculated for an office.

TREASURY BONDS.—We are pleased to learn that Geo. Livingston, Borough Treasurer, is paying off the Borough orders rapidly. He has already lifted over seven thoussnd dollars.

GIVE US NOTICE.—Subscribers living in town who receive the REPUBLICAN from the carrier, will if they have changed their place of residence, please give us notice at this office.

LOSS.—Geo. H. Weaver, Esq., lost one of his best horses last week. We were indeed sorry to learn this; but we are not able, like Stephen Girard, to pity him to the price of another horse.

HIGH RENT.—There is a good deal of complaint at the exorbitant prices asked and exacted for tenement houses in this place—and not without good reason. There is any number of old shells that are renting to-day, for fully one fourth of what they are worth.

PRIVATE BILLS.—Will John McGhee, Esq., of Beech Creek, Clinton county, please tell us what he thinks of the private bills our member, Mr. Meek, is having passed through the House? Do you not think the Republicans who voted for him last fall are sorry for it?

MILL.—One of the best flouring mills in Centre county, is the one in Liberty twp., owned by our enterprising Republican friend, Benj. Ligget, Esq. He cannot be beaten on buck-wheat flour, while everybody admits the superiority of his XX and superfine wheat flour.

WHEAT.—Robert Kendall, Esq., one of the scientific farmers of Harris tp., brought to our office last week, a stock of wheat which measured 13 inches. Think of this for March. But better still he says he has ten acres of the same kind, looking first rate, and promising a big yield.

GIVE US NOTICE.—Subscribers to the Bellefonte REPUBLICAN who intend to change their place of residence, should not fail to notify us where they wish their papers sent after April 1st. It will save us trouble if you will give us the name of your present Post Office, as well as the name of the office to which you desire the paper sent in future.

FUN AHEAD.—The boys will be pleased to know the next summer promises "lots of shows." About forty circuses and menageries are getting ready to start out as soon as spring fully commences. A large number of wild animals have arrived in New York from Europe, during the winter and no doubt some novelties will be presented, worth seeing.

EPISCOPALIAN.—The new Episcopal church will be opened on next Sunday (Easter) the first time for preaching. The morning service at 10½, a. m., and evening service at 7½ o'clock. The subject in the morning will be "The Festival of Easter" and in the evening a sermon appropriate to the occasion of entering the new church. All are invito attend.

NEW BRIDGE.—Frank McClain, Proprietor of the Bush House, is now erecting a bridge across the creek from the new street to his stable. This will be a great advantage to the House, as people with buggies, carriages or wagons, can stop there now without any danger of their horses being frightened by the locomotive or cars. Who says we have no enterprise in Bellefonte?

GARMAN HOUSE.—Daniel Garman, Proprietor of the Garman House, in this place is an excellent landlord and keeps first class accommodations. Being the owner of his large and commodious Hotel, he has of course no rent to pay, which enables him to acommodate his friends at lower rates than other Hotels. As Court week will soon be here, farmers will find it to their advantage to stop with him. See advertisement.

PAY UP.—We have on our books for subscription, job work and advertising, over three thousand dollars ranging in amounts from $2 to $30, and we want it. Of course this does not refer to those who have paid up. Good pay, and a good paper must and will follow. Fact gentlemen. Do not wait for the April court. Come now, or send it by mail. But if not sooner do not fail to call with the needful at the April court.

A SCALDED BOY.—On the 21st ult., a little boy nearly three years old, son of George and Sarah Bowes, of Liberty township, was pleading with his mother to boil him an egg for his supper. His mother at the same time, had just filled the coffee pot with boiling water, and set the tea-kettle back upon the stove hearth as she had often done before and went about her work preparing supper. Hearing a noise she turned to see the cause, and there beheld her youngest child lying upon the floor, on his face and the tea-kettle of boiling water upon the small of his back nearly bottom-side up and the boiling water flowing over his back, shoulders, neck and arms, scalding him severely. He was nearly crazy with pain for about twenty-four hours, after which he became more easy for a few hours. But death had marked him as his own, and he gently fell asleep. He was buried in the grave yard at Eagleville, by the side of his lovely sister Margie who went but seven weeks before to her heavenly rest. We are thus minute in order that this case may be a caution or a warning to all mothers who love their little ones as did this mother. We sympathise with the parents in their deep affliction.

LOCAL EXPRESS.—Last week we forget to mention the Local Express of our young friend Isaac Lose, Jr.; as one of the institutions of our thriving young city. As it is never too late to do well, we now make the amende honorable. Mr. Lose has for some time past been in the employ of that first class butcher and excellent citizen B. V. Black, Esq. He performed his duties so faithfully and was so punctual and obliging to his employer, that Mr. Black thought, such merit should not go unrewarded. He instantly made up his mind to present him with a first rate out-fit as a local expressman. The idea was well conceived, for no business could suit Isaac better. A horse was purchased. A wagon was made by Messrs. Given & Carpenter. The harness by those excellent mechanics J. H. McClure & Son. With this splendid out-fit our young friend must indeed feel proud. And Messrs. Black & Mullin can have the satisfaction of knowing that they merit the esteem of all good men in thus quietly rewarding merit. We refer thus minutely to this case, in order that other boys may learn to be industrious, and faithful to every trust, assuring them if they do so, they shall surely succeed.

SMASH UP.—We are indebted to our energetic reporter, at Beech Creek, for the particulars of the smash up near that place, on Saturday last. The particulars as reported are as follows: Four cars of B. E. V. R. R., through freight west, were thrown off the track near Beech creek on the 1st inst., in consequence of the breaking of a rail. No lives were lost, although some of the brakemen made miraculous escapes. All the cars that were thrown off, five we believe, were knocked off their trucks and badly broken. One car was thrown down the hill about fifty feet, and turned upside down. The rail was broken about the middle of the train, consequently no harm was done to the engine. The track was badly torn up; but by the energetic efforts of the R. R. Co., division hands and train men, together with a number of citizens, the Lock Haven mail train West, passed the break at five o'clock the same evening, and the freight train with what cars had not been injured followed. The loss to the R. R. Co., is, we understand about three thousand dollars.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.—Z. S. W.—We are very thankful for your favors. We will take care of Marshcreek if you will only keep us posted.

REPORTER—Send us the facts. We do not care to have you prepare them for the press. This we will cheerfully do, if you will only furnish the facts and particulars. What we say to you we wish to apply to all our reporters in the different parts of the county.

P. W. S.—Your communication is rejected, because of its personalities. We are always thankful for communications, but we will not publish articles which contain nothing but attacks upon private character. It is not our business to meddle in your fights, or those of your neighbors.

AMANDA—Your poetry is pretty good if it is as you say, your first effort. It is not quite good enough for the REPUBLICAN. Try again. Do not be discouraged, and do not be too anxious to get your name in the papers. A little patience and you will succeed.

NEW GOODS.—Messrs Sussman & Guggenheimer have always on hands a fine assortment of the very best goods in town. Mr. Sussman the Senior partner understands his business in all its particulars. He takes every advantage of the city trade, and a great many articles he buys in New York directly from the importers, so that he pays no extra per centage, and of course can undersell those who pay three or four commissions on the same articles. This firm deals in all kinds of seeds, and leather, as well as dry goods and groceries. See advertisement and give them a call.

COFFINS of all styles and prices, at O'Bryan's

DROWNED.—On Thursday evening, March 30th, near the residence of John Bechdol, Esq., in Liberty twp., Sarah Martin, aged about 60 years, was drowned in Marsh Creek. We give the particulars of this sad occurrence as we learn them from our reporter. The deceased and her aged mother lived together in a small house on the bank of Marsh creek. On the evening above stated, she was missed from the house at about 8 o'cl'k. Immediately search was made for her at the neighboring houses; but without success.

About two hours afterward, some object was discovered in the water, which was shallow at that place, and upon examination it was found to be the body of deceased. Whether she wandered into the water in a fit of aberration of mind, or fell in accidentally, remains a mystery. Her husband died many years ago, leaving her poor, with three small children to support. She performed her duty to them heroically and well. They all survive her, and deeply mourn her death.

REMOVALS.—J. D. Wingate, D. D. S., has removed from his former residence to the rooms directly over the store of the Messrs. Harper & Bros, on Spring street. See card.

DR. BELFORD.—Has removed his office to a splendid room on the second floor of the new Drug Store recently erected by Linn & Wilson, and adjoin the Hardware Store of Messrs. Irwin & Wilson, Allegheny street. See card.

WILSON'S DRUG STORE.—This old and established Drug Store has been removed by Messrs. Linn & Wilson, successors of F. S. Wilson deceased, to their splendid new building on Allegheny St.

RANKIN & IRWIN.—These enterprising men. Insurance and land agents, have removed their office to the rooms east of Bush & Yocums law office. We will have more to say of these gentlemen in the future.

DECEASED.—It is with regret that we announce the death of Daniel Livingston, Esq., of Curwensville, aged 51 years and 6 months. Mr. Livingston was a very worthy and highly respected citizen, intimately known in all parts of this county. Upon the enactment of the Internal revenue law, he was appointed assessor in this (the 19th) Congressional district, which position he held until his death. He discharged the duties of his office with fidelity to the government, and the general satisfaction of the citizens in the district. He was quite ill for more than a year past, and hence his death was not unexpected. He left a wife and ten children, and a large circle of friends, to mourn his demise.—Raftsman Journal.

BURGLARY.—The store of Capt. Dunlap & Co., at Pine Grove Mills, was broken into on Tuesday night the 28th ult. They succeeded in entering the office at the back window of the building. They did not get into the main room. The safe was not tampered with in any way as far as now descernable; but the goods, boots, shoes &c., were strewed promiscuously over the floor. The discovery was made in this way by the Captain in the morning.

At this writing we cannot tell whether any goods were taken by the burglars. There is no clue to the guilty party or parties. We would say to all, secure your locks and keep a sharp look out for these traveling thieves.

AMPUTATED.—Mrs. Emily Noble residing at Beech Creek, had a foot amputated on Sunday the 2d inst. Some four weeks since, she had a severe attack of typhoid pneumonia, which finally settled in one of her feet. It was so painful and affected her so seriously, that amputation was absolutely necessary to save her life. The operation was successfully performed by that excellent and skillful physician, Dr. W. P. Rothrock of that place, assisted by Dr. Armstrong of Lock Haven. She is now doing as well as could be expected under the circumstances.

NEW TEACHER.—Miss Carrie E. Sayer a very estimable young lady, entered upon her duties as teacher of one of our public schools in this place—No. 4 we believe. She takes the school formerly taught by Miss Rachael Davis, now Mrs Yeager, who gave up the school for the greater pleasures of connubial bliss. We hope Miss Carrie may prove as successful an educator as her predecessor, and we presume it would not be amiss to wish that she may, like her, finda new sphere ere long, for the employment of her fine intellectual powers.

JOB WORK.—As the spring trade is about opening up, we most cordially invite our merchants and business men to call at the REPUBLICAN office for their cards, circulars and other printing. You will be accomodated gentlemen on short notice, with the very best and at the most reasonable rates. While modesty prevents us from saying what we can do ourselves, we have a job printer—James T. Cartin—in our employ, who is a first class workman and has few if any equals as a job printer in the State.

FASHIONABLE TAILOR.—Wm. S. Tripple, fashionable merchant tailor on High street, is always ready to wait upon, or give the best of fits to his customers. Do not forget the name or the place. You will want a summer suit.

For the REPUBLICAN.

SABBATH SCHOOL WORK IN CENTRE COUNTY.—For the information of the readers of the REPUBLICAN, will you give me a little space for a brief statement of the objects of my work, the present season, under the auspices of the Centre County Sabbath School Association?

OBJECTS OF THE WORK.

First.—To explore the entire county, for the purpose of ascertaining its Sabbath school situation, and to complete a summary of statistics of all the schools within the limits of the county. An outline map is to be constructed that will show the number and location of the schools.

Second. To assist in planting Sabbath schools where none exist, and where denominational influence is wanting or too weak for self-support, and where assistance is most needed.

Third. To aid the needy, and especially newly organized schools, by donations of suitable books and papers, to encourage existing schools by visitation and counsel, aiming to elevate the standard of Bible instruction and to encourage better modes of teaching.

Fourth. Not so much to multiply largely the number of new schools, as to make the work permanent and efficient, and the schools self-sustaining—forerunners of the church and ministry.

This special service, having the above objects in view, is just begun. We shall aim to carry it forward in the name of the Lord, and for the saving of our precious youth, many of whom, literally, have none to care for their souls. I have everywhere received a warm welcome. Last week, I spent five pleasant days in the eastern part of the county.

The good people among those hills and valleys cheered the missionary with words like these. "We want you to come again, come and stop with us whenever it suits, just as if you were at home." I hope soon to have more to report that may interest the readers of the REPUBLICAN.

R. CRITTENDEN,
Missionary Am. S. S. Union,
April 1st 1871. Bellefonte.

A HEAVY CONTRACT.—Three things done at one and the same time, and only one youth employed! A demonstration of this may be seen at some of our town stores any day. Weighing eatables, smoking and talking to the lady customer. This is a difficult feat but we have young men who are actually equal to the task. It becomes still more intensely interesting, when they, with the same unwashed hands adjust the weight of sugar, &c., and handle their cigars at the same time. Why should scoops be cheated out of their uses?

Such nice young men might find themselves more suited out side, near the doors of some tobacco institutions, where a cigar is intended to be exhibited all the time, and only a few additional fantastic pieces of clothing would be required. An Indian costume is cheap and eminently suitable.

A nice thing is smoking—filling the air with villainous perfumes to make people uncomfortable; to gratify the barbarous propensity of one individual, especially where eatables are piled in the shelves to absorb the poisonous stinks. We have known corn starch to sicken an invalid lady after eating. It was saturated with tobacco smoke gotten out of a smoking grocery.

MONTOUR HOUSE.—We are pleased to learn that our enterprising friend Jacob S. Pence, has taken charge of the Montour House in Lock Haven. This house was first rented by those gentlemanly landlords Messrs Houseal & Krom, but afterwards they were, by their many friends, prevailed upon to remain in the Brockerhoff. Now Jacob being of a business turn of mind, concluded here was a chance for him. So like a good business man, as he is, he concluded first to take to himself a wife and then to take the Montour House. Both conclusions have been carried out by him. We know he is pleased with his amiable and handsome young wife and we understand that he told a friend that the Montour was paying admirably. We wish him happiness and joy in his first undertaking and an abundance of greenbacks as the result of his labors in the second.

HOMEOPATHY.—Dr. R. D. Tipple, has associated with himself in the practice of homeopathic medicine. Dr. E. M. Scheurer of Hanover, this State, who comes to us highly recommended as a physician, a gentleman and scholar, Dr. S. has been practicin medicine for the last four years with his father in the above place, who is one of the oldest and most skillful physicians in the State. We bespeak for this new firm a successful career.

MILLINERY.—Miss Annie Finn, will open during the third week in April, at Pine Grove Mills, a fine assortment of milinery goods, consisting of hats, bonnets, ribbons, flowers, &c., all of the latest styles. Her goods have been selected with care, and she requests the ladies of Pine Grove and vicinity to call and examine her goods, feeling sure they will give satisfaction, both as to quality and price. 14-2t.

AT a joint meeting of the Councils of the Bellefonte Lutheran Mission charge for the purpose of taking into consideration the resignation of Rev. J. A. Hackenberg, Pastor, the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted, to wit:

Whereas. Rev. J. A. Hackenberg, who has faithfully served us as Pastor, four years, has tendered his resignation of the Bellefonte mission, for reasons, therein assigned, &c.

Whereas. He has received and accepted a call at Ashland, Schuylkill county Pennsylvania. Therefore

Resolved. That with great reluctance and unfeigned sorrow, we accept his resignation, thereby severing our relations, as Pastor and congregations which have been so long and with such marked success sustained.

Resolved. That we bear testimony to our Pastors faithful performance of all his ministerial duties, without fear or favor and that by his untiring zeal and faithful labors, he has built up and greatly strengthened this charge, by increasing the membership, and impressing them with a proper zeal for the cause of Christ, and his church, so that by his resignation we sustain a loss not easily repaired.

Resolved. That Rev. J. A. Hackenberg, has been instrumental in accomplishing much good both in and out of the pulpit, and as such is entitled to our most earnest and sincere prayers, that God will still continue to prosper his labors in whatever field or capacity he may be called, and at last reward him with a crown of eternal life.

Resolved. That the foregoing preamble and resolutions be published in the county papers, and Lutheran Observer.

ALL kinds of Furniture repaired at O'Bryan's Furnitue Store opposite the Court House.

ADULTERATION OF BUTTER.—Whenever butter in the market exhibits, at this season, the fine, rich, golden color, which all good butter has in May and June, it may generally be set down as a fixed fact, that this attractive appearance is due to the presence of foreign matters. The material commonly used for coloring butter is annato. A recent examination of several samples of the finest looking Herkimer county butter that could be procured, by Professor Caldwell, of Cornell University, revealed the fact that all were colored with annato; each sample also contained a large per centage of inorganic matter. Copper was found in nearly every sample, while in one traces of arsenic were detected. This is a comforting fact for the people.

SENSIBLE ADVICE.—People who 'would not die in spring time" should exercise a great deal of caution in regard to the taking down of stoves and the laying aside of warm under garments. More colds are taken from this cause, more cases of incipient consumption developed and more diseases generally produced than from almost any other two with which we have any familiarity. Hasty housekeepers should remember that two bluebirds do not make a spring, any more than two swallows do a summer. Keep your stoves up and your winter underclothing on your person until the winter has fairly departed.

SWINDLERS.—The New York swindlers continue to flood the post offices with "confidential circulars' offering great bargains in counterfeit greenbacks, pinchbeck watches, &c., and we are sorry to say that there is an occasional greeny in this section, who is flat enough to get bitten.

FISH.—Messrs. Downing & Yeager, the enterprising fish men of the town, are expecting to receive a large supply of fresh fish to-day or to-morrow. Keep a sharp look out. They had not half enough last week to supply the demand. We know they are good—we tried them.

MISTAKES.—The following are some of the few mistakes which suggest themselves to the publisher of a newspaper.

It is a mistake to suppose that the subscription price of a paper is clear gain to the publisher.

It is a mistake to suppose that he obtains his white paper for nothing.

It is a mistake to suppose that a paper is printed without cost.

It is a mistake to suppose that a printer can live bodily, by faith.

It is a mistake to suppose that it is easy to please everybody.

It is a mistake to suppose that money due for the paper would be as good to us in a year as it is now.

It is a mistake to suppose that we would not be thankful for what is due, as well as for new subscribers.
